Michigan Mirror (Continued from Page 2) least to our knowledge. Ontonagon merchants told me that efforts to get this road fixed up have been in vain. This replacement rate is about double what it is in the average county south of the Straits. ... George A. Osborn, editor of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, recently charged editorially that "Northern Michigan has been the victim of discrimination." "The condition of our secondary roads, torn to their raw corduroy by billions of revolutions of visitors' automobile tires, is certainly a challenge to every Upper Peninsula county," writes Mr. Osborn. "We have waited for good roads. We have waited in vain." If you stick to concrete highways, you'll never experience the rocky, rough corduroy roads, some of which pass as state and federal highways. ... tain State Park near Ontonagon, the Gogebic lake state park, the Indian Lake state park, and the Straits state park at St. Ignace. Although the tourist potentials of the Porcupine park are great, and we have prominently publicized them, this park is sadly lacking in accommodations for travelers, and Knox Jamison, superintendent, is the first one to admit it. The map shows a camp ground along Lake Superior with electricity; actually the land is under private ownership; there is no drinking water or electricity. ... The Gogebic lake state park is about everything you would want to have, and we visited it at Mr. Jamison's recommendation. But we frankly can't say the same for the next two places visited - Indian Lake and St. Ignace. Indian Lake near Manistique is 25 years behind the times; it is wholly inadequate for postwar needs. The St. Ignace park is next to disrepair. Ignace park is next to be turned over to the Mackinac Island Park Commission which has made such a success (and with fees, too) of the Mackinac City state park. A good deal of trouble is being done at the St. Ignace park. We were badly disappointed, as this place is far below the quality of well-run parks below the Straits. ... We do want to compliment the counties of the Upper Peninsula for sponsoring recreational parks of their own, most of which are open to traveling visitors. The local people are friendly. Joe Davis, a Soo railroad employee near Gulliver lake came over to a township park on Gulliver lake where we parked for the night, just to say that we were welcome to camp on his land nearby "as long as you wish and it won't cost you a cent, either!" When we expressed complete surprise, he said, "My wife and I enjoy company." You can't beat that for hospitality.

VETERANS ARE WARNED AGAINST TRANSFERRING BONDS Veterans are warned that they should not sell their terminal leave bonds or turn them over to someone as collateral and then apply to the Treasury Department at Washington for a duplicate bond. Such an action would be considered as perjury and would render them liable for legal action as such. The law just passed by the 80th Congress, authorizing the cashing of terminal leave bonds after September 1, 1947, stipulates that the veteran in whose name the bond is issued must present the bond in person to secure payment and thus insure recovery of the full amount or security for any other reason will be valueless unless the veteran presents it himself for cashing. The Treasury Department will not justify recovery of bonds held by other than veterans, so it will be necessary to contact local law enforcement authorities if it is desired to recover bonds committed to another person. All veterans are accordingly urged to keep their bonds in their own possession and not let them get into the hands of "loan sharks" or other parties who will attempt to profit off them at the veterans' expense.
