Troop 2 Brownies Enjoy Weiner Roast

Brownie Troop 2 of the Noble district gathered at the home of their leader, Mrs. Maunder, for an outdoor weiner roast, their first activity of the new Scouting season. All of the girls had a wonderful time. Mrs. Maunder was assisted by Mrs. Dietrich, of the council, and Mrs. Kelly, assistant leader.

A full year of interesting programs is planned, so "Be Prepared", Brownies, for an eventful time.

Poultry feed wastes – which cost poultry men thousands of dollars each year — can be cut considerably by not filling the feed troughs so full and by changing the size of feeders as chickens grow, according to Michigan State college poultry specialists.

WEST POINT PARK

By MISS L. A. AULT
TELEPHONE FARM. 1461-M

Johnson Porter of New London, Ohio, was the Saturday night guest of his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ault. His wife, June, and their two children, who had been visiting relatives here for ten days returned home with him Sunday.

Mrs. Walter Rehahn returned home Saturday, after having been a patient at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, for 2½ weeks. Last Wednesday she had undergone a minor operation on one arm, but is now getting along nicely.

Mrs. Russell Ault and daughter, Shirley, left Friday morning for a ten day visit with relatives near Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Coolman and their younger children have gone north for a vacation.

Pat Middlewood, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Middlewood, is spending a few weeks with his grandparents in southern Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ault and their house guest, Mrs. Johnson Porter and children, from New London, O., were visiting with the Stromoskis in Wayne last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Louis Graham was calling in Wayne last Wednesday.

Mrs. Edward Kochanek and her baby daughter, from Detroit, spent the week-end with relatives and friends in West Point Park.

Esther Ann Middlewood has been ill with tonsilitis.

Mrs. John Varhol, who was convalescing from a severe illness, has had a relapse and is back in bed again.

Mrs. Austin Ault and Mrs. Virginia Oman were visiting in Plymouth last Tuesday.

The Sidelinkera were guests of Mr. Sidelinker's brother in Royal Oak Sunday.

Joanne Craig spent Sunday with her father in Detroit.

The Kauranens joined relatives in a family picnic and outing at one of the lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, from the Five Mile Road, are taking possession of the Shadyside Avenue property recently sold them by the Dohertys, who are moving to Dearborn. Mr. Smith is in the drug business.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and their son, from Milford, have moved in to the Farmington Road property lately occupied by the Bradleys, who have moved to Minnesota. Young Mr. Stewart is convalescing from a major operation, recently undergone at one of the hospitals.

June Vance, from Detroit, was visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vance Sunday.

Harvey and Ernest Fuerst, from the East Side, Detroit, were calling at the Aittama residence Sunday evening.

Donald Vance returned home Sunday from a week end vacation trip.

Work is progressing on the residence being built near Five Mile by Bill Owen, of Mayfield Avenue.

Jack Tallman was a visitor at Mt. Carmel Hospital Sunday.

The Harry Wolfes were in northern Michigan for the week end.

Mrs. Marcelle Hall is away on a vacation trip.

The Lewis Grahams entertained a group of their friends on the grounds of their home on Mayfield Avenue Saturday night.

Rev. Toogle, of the Community Methodist Church is away for a two week's vacation.

Strong demand and prospects for smaller output are likely to keep farmers' prices high in the next few months.

on the budget office . . . Give us money, and we will give you park services."

State parks are visited literally by hundreds of thousands of people each year. They are popular, and rightly so. They afford an opportunity for wholesome recreation and much needed relaxation.

Michigan is way ahead of the average state in its public recreation program. It recently sarted to purchase 100,000 acres in the southeastern section of the state near Detroit, and it is committed to buy some 20,000 acres in the Porcupine Mountain State park area in the Upper Peninsula.

This acquisition of land has prompted a new "gripe" which I have been hearing with increasing frequency. It is this: The state is ever seeking to acquire more and more land, but it is ever neglecting to open up this land for public use.

Surely one of the big jobs ahead is the development of state lands, not the purchase of more land. How can this development be financed?

To remedy the lack of funds whereby the state might provide better and more facilities — a "must" if the public is to use the land — the conservation commission sponsored a bill in the 1947 legislative session. This measure—House Bill 289 — proposed to give the commission authority to charge (if it desired to do so) a public fee for three things: Admission into a state park, parking within a state park, and camping overnight within a state park. The bill was defeated in the Senate.

We have no delusions that our views are any better than anyone else's. But I have always felt that it is one thing to charge admission into a state-owned park; it was quite another thing to charge a fee for the use of SPECIAL services to those who asked for them. If you wish to reserve a locker in a bathhouse for your clothing, why shouldn't you pay a reasonable fee for this privilege? If you wish to use a log cabin at Mirror Lake in the Porcupine Mountains, as we did, why shouldn't you pay a reasonable fee? If you wish to reserve a camping area for your own use, why shouldn't you pay a reasonable fee for it?

A use fee, limited to special services such as these, would be one happy solution of the problem as presented so frankly by Mr. Whiteley, conservation commission member. Those who desire better park facilities should be given an opportunity to help pay for them. We predict that such a use fee is coming in Michigan.

MARK SUGDEN AWARDED REXALL MERIT CITATION

The Rexall Citation of Merit has been awarded to Mark Sugden of Smith-Bradley Rexall Drug Store, it was announced this week.

Mahlon Bradley, owner of the Farmington Rexall Store, said that the citation was presented jointly by the International Association of Rexall Clubs and the Rexall Drug Company of Los Angeles, California. In a letter which accompanied the citation, Arch T. Carithers, general sales manager of Rexall Drug Company, wrote that Mr. Sugden had been selected for the award in recognition of his "outstanding merchandising ability and the service he has given to the community through Smith-Bradley Rexall Drug Store."

The International Association of Rexall Clubs represents some 10,000 independent Rexall druggists throughout the nation. Each year outstanding personnel in these stores are selected for the citation honor.

"We are happy to know," said Mr. Sugden, "that our organization has won national attention.

"Each of us at the store will continue to do our best to maintain a standard of service which is aimed, primarily, at one goal — the satisfaction of the people of Farmington."

Clean Clothespins

Keep clothespins in a clean place and wash them occasionally. Otherwise they may soil the clothes when pinned to the line.

Supplies of chicken meat in the second half of 1947 will be below last year. Prices may decline from present levels this fall. There will be fewer turkeys for the coming holidays, points out the USDA.
