OU Realty Program To Open

ROCHESTER Basic and specialty courses in real estate are available at the Division of Continuing Education, Oakland University. The spring term of evening courses begins the week of April 17.

"Introduction to Real Estate" presents the wide range of study and opportunity in real estate. It aids enrollees to prepare for the state licensing examination. G. Gordon Walker, MAI, SRA, the division's director of real estate education, conducts this course on Monday and Thursday.

"Real Estate Law I," Tuesday and Thursday, emphasizes aspects of Michigan law. Francis P. Hughes, attorney with Belout, Potere, Cox and Potere, is the instructor.

"Real Estate Appraisal I," Monday and Wednesday, covers the fundamentals of appraising land and improved properties. Thomas F. Jackson, SRA, includes techniques used by professional appraisers, field trips and actual appraisals.

"Mobile Home Parks" presents an in-depth analysis of the mobile home park industry from selection of the location to management of the completed project. Craig A. Thomas, regional director of development, Commercial Loan and Insurance Corp., conducts this course on Wednesdays.

Real Estate Institute II, the second of three courses leading to the recognition of academic study in the Graduate Realtors Institute Program for the professional designation of GRI is instructed by Thomas F. Maloney, vice president, G. Gordon Walker Associates, on Tuesday and Thursday.

For course brochure and to register, call the university.

OCC Spring Registration Scheduled

Registration for the spring term on the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College in Farmington will be held according to an alphabetical schedule on Wednesday, April 26 to Friday, April 28.

On April 26 and 27, registration will be from 9 a.m. until 1:30 p.m., from 1 to 4:30 p.m., and from 6 to 8 p.m. On April 28, registration will be from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

Classes begin on May 1.

OCC Program Will Recruit Local Veterans

A special counseling and recruiting program for veterans will begin on the four campuses of Oakland Community College, including the Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington.

The program is being started with a $25,000 Emergency Employment Act grant, and OCC will contribute another $11,000.

Twelve students who are veterans residing in Oakland County poverty areas will be employed by the college for work as counselor-recruiters.

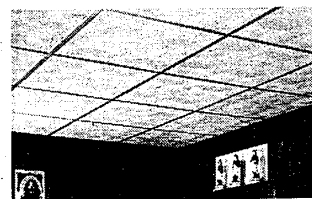

The students will be trained for one week and then will begin working 20 hours per week encouraging other veterans from indigent communities to utilize their educational benefits.

Information on the recruiting jobs is available from the Oakland County public employment agent, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, and from the college's community relations office, 2480 Opdyke Rd., Bloomfield Hills.

Sarah Anderson of the Orchard Ridge campus will direct the program, which is funded from April to the end of October.
