THE FARMINGTON (Mich.) ENTERPRISE, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1947

Various skills permit varying pe-lods of activity. riods of activity. Many farmers are self-support-ing at 70 or 75. Perhaps this is partly because of their environ-ment — mental and physical. Cicero asys farmers "are not hin-dered to any extent by old age, and seem to me to approach the ideal wise man's life."

verilies expressed by poets and philosophers of the maxt. It is still the habit of many critics to praise the style of Cicerós "De Senectute" but to toss its message aside as wish-ful thinking. Even Montaigne, who said frankly that reading the essay "made one long to grow old," pessimistically lim-ited what he considered a useful lifespan to a mere 50 years and thought it wrong to conter-blate further existence. Cicero's physical world was bounded by the frontiers conquered by Rome's plodding legions but his ciew was long in time. Control Commission Intersections: Gambling has been winked at, un-der certait circumstances, by some governors of Michigan. We recall when we spent a week end at a Michigan resort hotel at which the governor was a guest. A friend in-vited us to see the hotel casino. We had never been in agambling joint, and being a newspapermain, we ac-cepted more out of curiosity than a desire to gamble. In the cashno was the secretary of the govern-nand soveral members of his offlice staft. The next day: The govern-nor requested, the prosecuting at-torney to investigate "reports" of gambling. No, we don't blame Governor Sig-
