

Good Equipment Needed For Best Crop Spraying

Equipment in first class condition is just as necessary for insect control as the insecticide itself. Ray L. Jones, extension entomologist at Michigan State College, says that good coverage is highly important and requires enough nozzles and correct pressure, he advises. Nozzles should be adjusted to meet the spraying and dusting requirements of each crop treated. Needs vary with the crop and should be considered each time a different crop is to be treated. Jones emphasized that nozzles of dusters and sprayers can be too close or too far away from crops.
