IMPROVEMENT SOUGHT FOR MICHIGAN PARKS
 The 1949 legislature will be asked to appropriate $4,100,000 for development and improvement of Michigan's state parks and recreation areas.
 Record-smashing attendance of 12,000,000 this year has overtaxed existing facilities in many parks. Nearly half of the amount sought would be spent in south-eastern Michigan areas close to metropolitan centers but the conservation department's projected improvement program embraces parks in all sections of the state.
 Total amount requested for south-eastern Michigan is $1,955,000. Big request is $775,000 for development of Sterling state park near Monroe. A hundred acres of beach and picnic area would be added by the hydraulic fill of swampy territory. Plans also call for extension of lines from Monroe's city water system, beach dressing booths, picnic tables and shade tree planting.
 The $280,000 budgeted for Pontiac Lake recreation area would provide a bathroom and make the picnic area larger and more inviting.
 Improvements scheduled on the Rochester-Utica area are the planting of shade trees, estimated at $13,000; completion of a combination picnic shelter, toilet and recreation building, $38,000; construction of a vehicular bridge over the Clinton River, $351,000; and entrance roads to facilitate the movement of traffic, $48,000.
 Development of an artificial lake and beach by construction of a dam on the Huron river in the Proud Lake recreation area would cost $350,000. When finished, this beach will accommodate 5,000 to 6,000 persons.
 Government Hospitals
 Ninety-seven per cent of the hospital beds in nervous and mental hospitals and 85 per cent of those in hospitals for tuberculosis are now under government control.

WASHINGTON DIGEST
 lyvash reading clerk whose duty it is to read bills and official communications.
 It was most embarrassing. The voice they were hearing was not the voice of a man repeating the voice of God; it was the voice of the substitute clerk repeating the proclamation of the man at whom they were maddest. The members didn't like to make public admission of their error by sitting down, and so they had to stand through the painful 114-word pronunciation which had torn them from the bosom of family and constituency and brought them back to heat-ridden Washington.
 Next to the state department official who had unwittingly provided the excuse for my anecdote was the consul-general of the Philippine republic who happens to be the son of another college classmate of mine. He, like the rest of his family, had outlived the Japanese occupation, and with his sister, had participated in the effective Philippine underground, memories of which made this day's current tragedy of Hiroshima volcano on Camiguin Island a decidedly minor concern.
 On my left was a prominent Washington lawyer. During a "lull" in the discussion of international, if not comic affairs, he asked suddenly: "What was your mother's maiden name?"
 "Alice Blood," I replied.
 "Yes," he replied in satisfaction. "My aunt, Clara Brown often told me about your mother. They were classmates (ingham university '78), and she was a bridesmaid at your mother's wedding in La Salle, Illinois."
 Skipping your correspondent around the table, we arrive at a famous scientist. We exchanged reminiscences too, and he asked me the name of the same college. As we talked, I remembered an anecdote about him I had heard from a mutual college friend.
 A CHECK BY ANY OTHER MAN
 Not many years after his graduation, this scientist and his young wife arrived in the city where our mutual friend was in business, and called on him. The businessman recognized the scientist's face immediately but for the life of him, couldn't remember the man's name.
 During their lunch, the scientist remarked that he was going on an extended trip into Canada and had unfortunately run out of money. He wondered could he get a check cashed at the businessman's bank. The businessman gladly acquiesced, thinking that when he saw the signature on the check, he would recognize the scientist's name. To be sure, if they went to the bank, the scientist wrote the check, and the two men went to the cashier's window. But as the scientist handed in the check, all the businessman could read was the name of a bank in a very distant city and the amount—five hundred dollars.
 He had already said to the cashier, "I want you to meet my friend and he could get no further. Terribly embarrassed, he turned to the scientist and said: "I'm sorry, but I can't recall your name."
 Of course the cashier overheard this remark and with the natural caution of the banker, said to the businessman: "This will be fine, Mr. X, but will you please endorse this?" Mr. X turned it over, noticed the name but did not recognize it, trembled to think of what would happen to his bank account if it bounced (and he was sure it would), and signed. Farewells were spoken, the scientist departed. Day after day the businessman awaited the call from the bank.
 In fact, he told me he had picked out a space on the wall where he intended to frame the paper so that he could call attention to it casually should some other vaguely identified caller request a similar favor.
 Nothing happened.
 A month or so later, another college friend came to town. The businessman related the story, describing the scientist and his occupation. Unaccountably his listener burst into laughter.
 "Didn't you know," he said between gasps, "that man's technical as well as scientific information which he acquired at school along with his A-B-C's later made him a cool million the year after he was graduated?"
 At the luncheon there was also a Chinese oil expert who merely listened and an ERP representative who left early.
 And now back to my red-headed host. He related the adventure of one of the guests who had been unable to appear. It seems this gentleman had formed a corporation called "World Development, Inc." or something very similar. When my host heard his glowing prospectus, he said: "Aren't you covering a lot of ground?"
 "Oh, no," said the promoter who since had acquired considerable influence in international affairs, "this is just a subsidiary of the Interplanetary corporation."
 Then I had to go, so I never knew what a master-plan for the rebuilding and exploiting of the nation, the world or the sidereal spaces were discussed or consummated.
