On motion of Wendell Brown, attorney for plaintiff,

It is ordered that defendants John Doe, Mary Doe, Richard Roe and Mary Roe, individually and jointly and severally, as lessee and/or tenant and/or lessees of and/or tenants of and/or as persons having a claim against and/or in or to safety deposit boxes numbered 1, 3, 9, 15, 17, 25, 27, 29, 31, 34, 47, 56, 69, 78, 81, 82, 84, 89, 94, 96, 105, 108, 150, 177, 185, 196, 237, 239, 247, 253, 261, 278, 320, 322, 327, 337, 338, 347, and 349, described in the bill of complaint on file, whether said defendants are minors or legally or mentally incompetent to act, and all persons who may become interested, although unborn, undetermined, contingent or unascertained, and the respective heirs, executors, administrators, guardians, representatives and/or successors and/or assigns of the defendants named hereto, and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, appear in the above cause within three (3) months from the date of this order, or the bill of complaint on file will be taken as confessed against said defendants and against each and every one of them who does not appear herein.

It is further ordered that publication of this order, in the manner hereinafter set forth, will not be necessary as to such of said defendants as shall be served with a true copy of this order personally or by registered mail, within the time and in the manner specified by the laws of the State of Michigan.

It is further ordered that this order may be published and as to such of the above named defendants as shall not be served, according to law, with a true copy of this order either personally or by registered mail, within the time or in the manner as specified by the laws of the state of Michigan, this order shall be published in The Farmington Enterprise, Farmington, Michigan, a newspaper printed and circulated in Oakland County, Michigan, the County in which the above entitled cause is pending, once in each week, for six weeks in succession, and that said publication commence within forty (40) days from and after the date of this order, according to law.

It is further ordered that plaintiff make due proof of service of this order, upon each and every one of the defendants above named, whether such service be personal, or by registered mail, or by publication of this order, in accordance with the statutes of the State of Michigan.

The undersigned Circuit Judge hereby certifies that the within cause is a class suit for a Declaratory Judgment or Decree and for authority from this court to open the safety deposit boxes herein involved and for instructions from this court concerning what plaintiff should do, after the opening of said safety deposit boxes, in case any one or more of them should contain contents of any kind or nature.

A WOMAN SCORES AGAIN

WASHINGTON, D. C. — SOUNDPHOTO — Mrs. Grace M. Stewart, first woman lawyer to become executive assistant to the Attorney General of the U. S. is the willing victim of a squeeze play as her daughters Pat (left) and Barbara offer their congratulations. Mrs. Stewart succeeds Peter C. Brown.

from one human brain to another); clairvoyance (the ability to visualize things or events taking place beyond the vision or knowledge); or for that ability which may involve both of the former, precognition — the ability to predict things which will occur in the future.

And also psychokinesis, the hardest one of all for the cynical to swallow. That is the power of mind over matter, e.g. ability to make dice fall the way you want them to by thinking at them.

Roughly, this is an example of what has been done by Dr. Rhine and others. After long experiment and mathematical calculation, it is determined that by chance alone anybody can pick correctly five cards out of a pack of 25. That is just guessing, and it is even money the subject can do it.

If he is right oftener (and many have been right consistently more often than five in 25) that is MORE than chance. If he is right often enough, it is said that he has extrasensory perception. In other words, he is able to perceive what the card is without the use of his senses, but rather by some undefined, unmeasured, unclassified ability which science as yet cannot explain.

Clairvoyance is a common experience. An example might be of the mother who has a vivid and alarming impression of a train wreck. It may be a nightmare, a waking hallucination, or just an intuition. The wreck seems to be connected with her son, perhaps with some definite place like a tunnel. It turns out later that her son was actually injured in a wreck at the spot where her dream assigned it.

Careful checking of such experiences is now going on, and Dr. Rhine feels that the results in these cases, too, appear to show that some unknown process is involved, unexplained in terms of our ordinary senses.

As to psychokinesis, experiments have seemed to prove that dice rolled in a mechanical cage could be made to fall, oftener than they would by the laws of chance, according to the way the subject wished them to fall.

Dr. Rhine and his associates are trained psychologists. They say they are not trying to convince anyone that the above-mentioned qualities are actually possessed by certain individuals, but they are trying to investigate their apparent existence.

AND NOW A BOOK ON JOHN GARNER

I had another adventure which might be caller parapolitical. There was nothing psychic about it, but it included a piece of hindsight that is interesting.

The hindsight is that of former Speaker of the House and Vice-President John Nance Garner. He said he wished he had never left the house of representatives to run for vice-president. He felt that if Franklin Roosevelt had had a man like Speaker Joe Cannon in the speaker's chair — a no-man — Roosevelt could have avoided some of the mistakes Garner thinks he made. In other words, Garner would have liked to play Cannon to Roosevelt.

This came out in connection with a gathering of a few of the news friends of that over-six-feet-tall-Texan who looks like Abraham Lincoln and talks like Will Rogers. A man who was brought up on a ranch, but thought cows were a novelty until he was 10 because all they raised on his father's ranch were buffalo. He is Washington correspondent for more dailies than any one I ever heard of, and once we wangled him one vote for the vice-presidential nomination for the lark of it. Now he's author of a book.

I'm talking about Bascom Timmons and his book, "Garner of Texas," the only complete record of that fiery gentleman from Uvalde whose record for integrity and political ability in the house of representatives is one few can rival.

"Timmy" wrote it from his own notes and absolutely free hand. He probably knows Garner better than anyone on earth. It's a good book. It contains many interesting things including the "hindsight" I quoted.

Timmons is not only popular among newsmen, but he's popular with congressmen, presidents, cops and cats. One of his cats had its portrait painted by Howard Chandler Christy; another was operated on by a specialist at John Hopkins, both thereby getting up feline records in their respective fields, as their master has in his. If you're interested in "Garner of Texas", you'll be interested in what Timmons of Texas has to say about him.

It is admittedly difficult to explain bookkeeping matters to the average citizen. This is especially true about the state treasury's "surplus". Funds ear-marked for future expenditure became a part of the cash balance in the treasury. When the legislature wound up its 1948 affairs, there was a difference of $35.3 millions between anticipated 1948-49 revenues (July 1, 1948 to July 1, 1949) and the legislature's 1948-49 appropriations.

However, the state had a $23 million "surplus" — (now you have it and now you don't) — left over from previous years.

Auditor general Murl K. Aten has reported an additional balance of 10.6 million at the end of the 1947 - 48 revenue - expenditure period.

And so, as long as inflation keeps booming and taxes keep mounting, everything may appear to be rosy at Lansing.
