Starvation Takes Only 1% Of L. P. Deer Herd

Less than one per cent of the lower peninsula deer herd was lost through winter and spring starvation, the conservation department reports after conducting final organized searches.

Due to the later winter breakup, the upper peninsula final report has not been made by district game managers but evidence to date also indicates relatively light losses.

In the Mio district, normally critical in bad years, only 50 starved deer were located or about one for every six manhours of searching there. Largest concentrated losses were noted on the Hanson forest, Crawford County. Besides the 22 animals found at Hanson, 20 were spotted in the "hant" area in Alcona, and Oscoda Counties.

Searches covered key areas in all districts where winter deer food shortages usually occur.

Aiding game managers in the searches were conservation officers, other department personnel, 4-H Club members, high school students and local sportsmen.

Benjamin Franklin was the 15th in a family of 17 children.
