Religion Update

Rev. Lester Kinsolving's

Monsignor Salvatore Adamo, the elfin editor of the weekly Star-Herald of the Catholic Diocese of Camden, N. J., is without question an intrepid priest.

He regularly dares to needle that ecclesiastical colossus across the Delaware River, which he delightfully refers to as "The Archdiocese of Brothery Love" — the rigorously rigid regime of His Eminence, John Cardinal Krol, archbishop of Philadelphia and president of the United Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Latest target of Msgr. Adamo is the cardinal's ham-handed press agent, Ed ("The Destroyer") Devenney.

This virtually humorless sacerdotal hatchet man recently electrified Pennsylvania journalistic circles by announcing that two of Philadelphia's three daily newspapers, The Inquirer and The Daily News, "have been taken off our mailing list and I have given instructions to people in this office not to discuss anything with reporters from either paper."

The first will be held Monday evening, April 16, and will be led by Rabbi Seymour Rosenblom and Cantor Nicholas Penick.

Rabbi Jacob E. Segal, spiritual leader of Adas Shalom, and Cantor Larry Vieder will conduct the second on Tuesday evening, April 17. Reservations should be made by calling the synagogue.

Passover is the Jewish festival which marks the Jewish people's liberation from Egyptian slavery more than 3,000 years ago. It is celebrated for eight days each spring. The first two nights are devoted to the ritual of the seder, which retells the story of the exodus from Egypt.

course of two years, 1968-1970, two different series about the archdiocese and Cardinal Krol.

The first of these series she recalls having turned in to then city editor (now assistant managing editor) Sam Boyle — who later informed her that he had lost it.

Two years later, Miss Medsger tried again, with a five-part series — only to have Boyle order her to "rewrite this according to my Catholic opinion," an order she recalls refusing to obey. This, she writes, provoked an all-day battle between Boyle and George Packard, the Bulletin's managing editor.

When asked about this, both Boyle and Packard replied, "No comment" — a notable response indeed, when coming from professional newsmen.

Meanwhile in Washington, the U.S. Catholic Conference (national Catholic headquarters) recently has implemented the Vatican's 20,000 word statement on the importance of press freedom, by adopting a resolution that:

"It is crucially important that the men and women who work in the media not be subjected to undue pressure from either public or private sources."

Miss Medsger is wondering if this commendable concern will stretch as far north from Washington as Philadelphia. For the president of the U.S. Catholic Conference — as well as Ed Devenney's boss — is John Cardinal Krol.

Synagogue Seders Set

Adas Shalom Synagogue, 29901 Middle Belt, Farmington, will hold two Passover seders in its new synagogue.

For those who know carefully news items are parcelled out in the Philadelphia archdiocese, there are few crimes, locally I mean, more heinous than failure to present news as the church leaders there envision it. As for the great Devenney blackout, Adamo added archly: "A less charitable descrip-

Psychologist Is Kenote Speaker

Dr. Paul W. Pruyser of the Menninger Foundation in Topeka will be kenote speaker for the annual international convention of the Christian Association for Psychological Studies April 11 to 13 in the Sheraton Metro Motel, Columbus.

Dr. J. Harold Ellens, pastor of the University Hills Christian Reformed Church of Farmington, is handling arrangements for the convention in his capacity as CAPS Lake Erie Chapter advisor.

Dr. Pruyser, the Henry March Pfeiffer professor at the foundation, will speak on "The Problem of Leadership in America" during the opening meeting at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

A clinical psychologist, he is author of several books including "A Dynamic Psychology of Religion."

Other noted participants in the three-day meeting expected to draw some 300 members will be Dr. Tom Brady, professor of psychology in the Rosemead Graduate School in California, and Dr. John Vayhinger.

General meetings of the convention will be open to the public. The convention site is located at 6900 Merriman.
