THE MICHIGAN MIRROR

By GENE ALLEMAN

"A constitutional convention is justified."

"I have traveled about the State a good deal lately and I have heard only one voice cry out for more and more State government."

"In 1945, the State payroll totaled $29,384,026.90. In 1951, it had more than doubled to $81,000,000. All that took place in just six years. It has been estimated that the payroll will grow to $93,000,000.00 in the current fiscal year if the present trend continues."

"The Legislature has had no help at all from the governor in meeting this crisis. He wants to spend and spend, to expand State services to new heights, because he thinks it is smart campaigning to promise the people more and more. Never does he tell the people that they must pay for the cost of State government. Instead, he tries to make them believe that they are going to get something for nothing."

"The governor has criticized the Legislature's efforts to meet his requests for deficiency appropriations by practicing economy. He has not told the people how his own Department of Administration failed to hold the line to keep expenditures within appropriations. The executive department has sought by every means at hand to create more of a financial crisis."

"To show what has happened in State government, I made a study of the payroll of one agency. I discovered that in the last six months the salary of one individual has increased more than $1,000.00 a year because of salary increases, step increases and upgrading in his job. Six months ago, he was performing the same duties for $1,600.00 a year less than he is performing them now. I know of few places where he could find employment and receive that sort of treatment."

"So I say that economy, both on the local and State level, must be a prime objective of all units of government if we are to avoid heavy new taxes."

There is one expenditure which, according to experts, would see fair return - the Straits bridge. Question now is, can the state at this time afford the $2 million needed for preliminary work, despite the assurance of a traffic study that the money could be returned - with interest - through increased tourist trade and tolls?

Republicans still are groaning over Williams' veto of the liquor license fees bill which would have netted the state, they say, a needed $2 million. The bill split the fees 50-50 between state and local units instead of giving local units the 85 per cent they are now getting.

Stands Mute On Charge Of Negligent Homicide

Roderick MacLean of 106 Dodge River Drive, Lansing, stood mute in the examination before Justice of the Peace John J. Schulte on Friday, March 14, on the charge of negligent homicide in the death of February 20 of Milton L. Meyers. A plea of not guilty was entered for him and he was bound over to Circuit Court in Pontiac for arraignment March 24.

According to witnesses, MacLean was traveling east on US-16 three-quarters of a mile from Beck Road near Novi when he passed a truck and his car went out of control, colliding with an automobile going west in which Milton L.
