Mothers Make Costumes For May 9 Dance Recital

Fourteen dancing class mothers met at the home of Mrs. George Nahstoll to cut costumes for the May 9 Dance Recital of their children. The children are under the dancing supervision of Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Fern Smith, who came from Brightmoor Community Center where similar recitals have been held for many years, a spokesman said.

The mothers are Mrs. Wooley, Mrs. Haite, Mrs. McCaffery, Mrs. Nathan, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Reinke, Mrs. Trombley, Mrs. Norman Cook, Jr., Mrs. Whiting, Mrs. Briggs, Mrs. Bernini and Mrs. Romero.

So that every child may be costumed and in the show, every effort was made to keep costs down. For this reason all costumes of one group are cut at the same time, thus saving material and assuring uniformity. As an example, one of the big jobs was cutting the military and sailor costumes for the 14 children who are to do a military tap number and then, with a change of bodice and hat, do a sailor routine. By actual count, there were 32 individual pieces to be cut for each child, though this gives in effect two costumes.

The children who will be doing these two numbers in the show are Cynthia Reinke, Lida Trombley, Virginia Bernini, Diane Russell, Sharon and Karen Erdmann, Judy Hancock, Tibby, and Ina Jackson, Esther Bruak, Sandra Walters, Susan Graham, Linda Brovage and Michele Cook.

Diane Russell, not Diane Coolidge, as previously reported, is to be the French Doll in the Story Book Doll Ballet.

Luxury Gifts for Mother Need Not Be Expensive

BY EDNA MILES

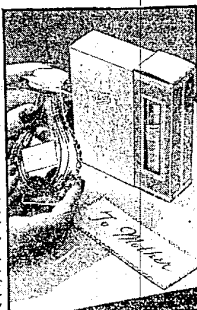

THE gifts that Mother gets on Mother's Day need not be expensive or showy. But, because it is her day, they should be chosen with her particular wants in mind. They should be what she'd pick for herself if she could indulge some of her small whims.

Luxury isn't necessarily expensive. Take, for instance, the luxury of a new toilet water and stick perfume combination in a matching fragrance. It's budget-priced. The eau de toilette is for her dressing table, the stick perfume goes into her handbag for touch-ups away from home. It's by the way, a good traveler.

Stick perfume, because it contains a higher percentage of essential oils, is generally longer-lasting than stick cologne. It's non-greasy, too, vanishing immediately on the skin, leaving a lingering fragrance.

If Mother likes to combine practically with her luxury, there's a set for her that includes an after-bath lotion and an after-bath friction mitt designed to be used together.

The white terry-cloth mitt has friction material across the palm and a non-porous pad beneath. This means that most of the mitt is kept dry during use. Used with the lotion, the mitt soothes tired nerves and gives a cool, invigorating lift.

WAYNE SCHOOLS CLOTHING DRIVE GOAL IS 100 TONS

A goal of 100 tons has been set for the Spring Public School Clothing Drive which opened Tuesday in Detroit and Wayne County schools and will continue through May 2. The public is asked to take their contributions of used shoes and clothing to a public school during the drive. The garments are then cleaned and repaired by the Volunteers of America and given to needy children absent from school because parents cannot afford to clothe them.

A. N. Heanigar, chairman of the School Social Service Committee, which sponsors the drive, pointed out that the clothing received in the spring drive will be processed in the summer to prepare for the heavy demand during the fall and winter months.

Thousands of children are kept in school every year as a result of the public support of the clothing drives, Heanigar said.

Those contributing to the drive should tie shoes in pairs and wrangle clothing in bundles. All sizes are needed, both child and adult, as the program helps even students of high school age. Families with no children in school may arrange a pick-up at their home by calling the Volunteers of America at LO 7-4900.
