Monday Is Election Day . . .

at both Farmington and Clarenceville and that ought to ring a big loud bell in the minds of every full fledged citizen of this community.

You, your neighbors and friends are faced with a major challenge — a challenge that must not go unanswered. The challenge? A record vote Monday, June 9 at both Farmington and Clarenceville! It isn't a job that requires a lot of time or effort, yet it is one of the most positive and effective acts we as Americans can perform.

Why, then, so much reluctance, complacency and indifference? Your schools are your business. They probably affect more people more directly than any other public agency. Yet far too many of us are perfectly willing to let George do it. If our schools are to do the best job possible they must have the support and interest of the communities they serve, and the best way to show that interest is a record vote on election day.

The Enterprise, at times, has been criticized for being too emphatic in placing the responsibility on the people. They say that often times lack of contests or issues make voting meaningless. Or that lack of debate among candidates leaves little stimulus or interest. Do these factors really make that vote any less important? It is still a right and an obligation and it is still individual responsibility. That is democracy, there is no substitute.

Contests are assured in both the Farmington and Clarenceville elections, and in addition there will be two important issues on the Clarenceville ballot. But regardless of this, our schools are a reflection of our interest and community obligation. When we turn out in record numbers at the polls, it is proof that we are aware of what is going on and more important, that we are actively interested.

Voting is the loudest and most effective voice we can raise, it is listened to and respected. Yet too often that voice is only a faint whisper. Will it be a whisper next Monday? The answer is up to you!

is fast shifting from the foreign scene to the national political scene and from all indications it will be quite a debate.

The Enterprise, like a great many others, is reserving its opinion on the candidates until Dwight Eisenhower has had an opportunity to express his views. He has stated that he would not campaign for the Republican nomination for President, but it is probable that in the next few weeks he will clarify his stand on most of the issues in the public minds. We believe he should in order to give not only the delegates but the general public a view of his opinions.

Until that time, we resent the tactics being used by some of the candidates to discredit him. We would feel the same way if it were any of the other candidates, who were being unjustly criticized. The American people are searching for the best man to fill the Presidency. They have a right to study and know these candidates without the harassing of politicians.

We do not mean that Eisenhower, or any other candidate, should not be challenged or debated, but we do mean that it should be done constructively and on the basis of honest differences on issues. Refusal to recognize delegations at state conventions, indifference to primaries, distraction by leveling political charges, are not constructive or fair.

Once the opinions of all of the candidates have been expressed and the differences outlined, then the debate can and should be held. The majority of the people are interested in the thinking of the candidate himself, not in his methods of running down the other candidates.

America is waiting anxiously for the great debate to start in spite of the distractions.

The Worm Has Turned . . .

as it usually does when a big rock shows up in the tunnel. Seven Roman Red, including ruthless Anna Pauker, who have been burrowing their way around in behalf of the Communists, have come smack up against a rock. They seem to be doomed now to life in their tunnel, if they are lucky.

This should serve as a good, practical object lesson, to other communist burrowers, that no matter how big that tunnel may be there most likely will be a rock in it.

Bible Comment:
Purging of Inner Evils Will Brace Us for World Role

The Kingdom of Judah was a small country set between the great empires of the ancient world. It was always in some danger from its powerful enemies and especially from its powerful neighbors. But our domestic life and our policies and actions are in large measure determined by conditions elsewhere in the world.

Despite the peaceful attitude and achievement of the United States and Canada, we have, within this 20th century, been involved in wars that were not of our making. Death, suffering and tragedy have come to our homes. We know that we are not, and cannot be, isolated.

What then should be our course? If we look closely we see that there is something to be learned on the subject from the lesson of Israel and the fall of the Kingdom of Judah.

Whatever safety there was for the kingdom lay in the preservation of her own integrity and moral strength and honest dealing with neighboring nations.

It was this that prophets, like Jeremiah, proclaimed as the only right course. But neither king nor people would listen. They turned their own life into corruption, and they engaged in crooked intrigues. Instead of listening to the prophet they cast him into a foul dungeon.

If we would heed the lesson of Israel, we would engage all our powers in the correction of evils and abuses in our internal life. Nothing would make us stronger and wiser for the inevitable part that we must play in world affairs.

Political control of Michigan's correction system has been urged among inmates at the Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson, according to Carret Heyns, warden at Ionia reformatory and a former corrections commissioner.

Heyns testified to this effect before legislative finance committees at Lansing. Riot damage at the prison exceeded $1,500,000.

His allegations were another "hot potato" tossed into the lap of Governor C. Mennen Williams who, like former Governor Kim Sigler, has advocated more appointive power for the governor to run state government.

As quoted in the press, Heyns said: "When the director is appointed by the governor and it is a political appointee, the nervousness of subordinates cannot be eliminated. It even filters down to the inmates."

Heyns' solution is a return to the five-man corrections commission law whereby prisons were taken out of control of the governor and were run by persons "chosen for the jobs on the basis of their training and experience in corrections towns."

For months able Congressman Frank Karsten of Missouri has been sitting on various congressional proposals to investigate the China lobby. He has been authorized by his committee chairman, Congressman William Dawson of Chicago, to proceed with a probe of mis-expenditure of U.S. funds sent to China, and various materials along this line have been prepared. However, Karsten has not moved and some people are wondering why.

Here is a secret Chinese cable which may give the answer. It indicates that in any probe of the China lobby other congressmen would be involved.

The cable, dated March 1, 1951, was sent to Chiang Kai-Shek from his military attache in Washington, Gen. Peo Shung-Kan, and involves Congressman Walter Judd of Minnesota. It indicates first, how American politics have been mixed up in Chiang's affairs; second, how changeable Chiang has sometimes been about different American leaders. The cable reads:

"Yesterday your humble subordinate called upon Congressman Judd to deliver your oral message. Judd requested me in turn to cable the following message to you: 'Last year Congressman Judd cabled General MacArthur persuading him to appoint General Wedemeyer to go to Formosa to assist us. However, General MacArthur, after his visit to Formosa, discovered that we were utterly disgusted with General Wedemeyer and intended not to accept him. Therefore, the proposal made by Judd ended without action. Now, Judd is trying to convince us to forward a secret message to General MacArthur expressing our intention of welcoming General Wedemeyer.'"

One significant question raised by this cable was whether Congressman Judd was violating the (Continued on Page Six)
