Dear Editor:

I am writing this in the hope that it may be helpful in starting a chain of action which will eventually put an end to hunting in Farmington Township.

In my opinion, Farmington has become far too built up to allow hunters to roam promiscuously. I know there are laws which are supposedly designed to keep hunters at safe distances from populated areas, homes, etc. However, since licenses are issued to anyone who has the money to pay for them rather than according to their amount of intelligence, I doubt that some of them could read the rules and regulations.

Our home is backed by a large field which, each fall, draws swarms of hunters. Last year I was my mistress to choose the opening day of hunting season as my wish day. Now I know how it feels to be a soldier in the front lines, except that I didn't have the benefit of a "fox hole". This is no exaggeration and we have bullet holes all over the back of our house to prove it.

Our subdivision is posted liberally with No Hunting signs, but, as I said, some of them can't read. Many mornings during the hunting season I walk to the school bus with my daughter in an effort to make sure that she arrives without benefit of buck shot.

We have been told by the police that all we have to do is obtain the offending hunter's license number, report it, and our worries will be over. But do you know, the hunters won't stand still while I get pencil and paper and within range to read that number? How stupid can a suggestion be? In my opinion, either hunting should be banned in all populated areas or the householders should be issued licenses to hunt hun-

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lesile of Lexington, Ontario, were week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gassner on Springbrook Drive. Mrs. Gassner's brother, Mr. Ralph Weir, and Miss Vida Irwin from Canada were also visitors here Saturday.

I wonder how many other residents of Farmington Township share my opinion?
