JUNIOR GARDENERS ENTER EXHIBITS IN SEPT. 5 SHOW

The Farmington Junior Gardeners have been busy preparing for the flower show which will be held September 5 in the Methodist Church.

Mrs. P. A. Henault, who is chairman of the juniors for the show, has been instructing them in making pottery containers, drawing flowers for backgrounds and helping with flower arrangement practice.

This year the juniors plan a much larger show of their own. They are taking over the Sunday School room in the church basement and are making many interesting and educational exhibits.

The children of the community are invited to make entries in the show. It is understood that exhibits must be in before 11 a.m. Friday, September 5.

The children of the community are invited to make entries in the show. It is understood that exhibits must be in before 11 a.m. Friday, September 5.

Each entrant is to choose a subject from a list and follow it through from the origin to the finished product. On the list are corn, pumpkin, gourd, apples, chrysanthemum and sunflower. Each entry is to be exhibited as a unit. The entry should include history of the seed, what country it came from, who introduced it, growth, specimen, its use and an artistic arrangement of the object.

Class 20 is artistic arrangement by six to eight year olds, nine to eleven year olds and 12 to 16 year olds. The arrangement must include plant materials found on any hike or on moon.

What? No TV Sets At This State Park
Camping is getting more complicated every day. Paul Wigg, manager of Burt Lake state park near Indian River, says he was registering a camper the other day when the man's daughter ran up and asked: "How is the TV reception here?" When told that as of that date, there were no sets in the park, she exclaimed, "Daddy, we don't want to stay here!"

ROLLING DOWN THE RIVER

By Bob Kettler

Now the fellow who tells us this story, who has been in our Studebaker mart for a bit of new oil and a slight motor tune-up, no doubt steals it from someone else, but after all, my story is so hard to come by, who are we to look a tale in the face and say "no".

This fellow mentions a poster he runs across wherein is pictured a rubber heel and a girl and the girl is saying, "I'm in love with American-made rubber heels." Just below in a small uneven handwriting some female writes, "Too late, sister, I married the guy."

Well perhaps the guy is a heel for not saying anything we can gather, he doesn't own a car of any sort to say nothing of providing his ever-loving wife with a car as fine as the 1952 Studebaker. That's the car that has everything, as you will admit whenever you get behind the wheel and give it a trial ride. You'll admire the beauty, you'll be amazed at the power of the compact V-8 engine, you'll thrill with its ease of handling and when you drive it for your self how economical the car is whether it be the Studebaker Champion or the Commander, you'll decide that there is no other car for you.

So a friend of ours from out-state drops in for a visit a few days past and for some reason or other we find ourselves on the highway. As we walk along a panhandler approaches, and a no doubt asking our friend as a bit of a soft touch, stops and says, "Do you have a dime, buddy, for a cup of coffee?" "No," says our pal blandly, "but don't worry about it, I hardly ever touch the stuff."

That's all well and good. Maybe he can get along without coffee but that car of yours cannot get along without new oil and fresh lubrication at more or less regular intervals. Old as this observation may be, the fact remains, it's the stuff that makes the wheels go around. Especially now, during these hot summer months when your car takes a terrific beating from the heat. If you are planning to have taken a vacation trip, by all means have your car thoroughly lubricated and new oil provided for the motor. It wouldn't be a bad idea, either, to have our expert mechanics give the motor a thorough checkup and if needed, a complete tuneup. Your car will repay you a hundredfold for these services, in better, more efficient service.

That's that, but we overheard one woman remark about another, "She'd be more apt with less span."

Yours,
BOB KETTLER
