

Blue Star Mothers

The Blue Star Mothers of America will hold their annual post president club meeting in Flint Tuesday, September 9, in the Don Polaski Hall on Saginaw Avenue.

Mrs. Beulah Reed, general president of Michigan, will install the 1952-53 officers of the four districts of Michigan.

Every Blue Star Mother past chapter president of Michigan is invited to attend these meetings.

Margaret Mitchell, Sarah Hopkins, Lettie McIntyre, Lucille Langley, Etta Vanderburgh, Ethel Lint and Ethel Whitford are the past presidents of the Farmington chapter. Mae Jarrett is president for 1952.

ROLLING DOWN THE RIVER

By Bob Kettler

Now if you should happen to be listening with a good ear you'll detect a slight change of notes in the air these days.

As a matter of fact, some people get right up in meeting and talk, with slight prodding and sometimes with none at all, but the only trouble with these talkers is they all happen to be candidates for something or other and science has not yet perfected a silencer for a candidate for anything.

Fellow in the garage for a bit of a tune-up tells us he hears a young fellow giving forth on politics at a rural town while in his vacation. The facts of the speech were widely separated and the whole talk was very rambling and loosely coordinated. When he was through, our friend overheard an old farmer say, "Look, son, it strikes me that you ought to bawle that bay before you sell it!"

It just so happens that such an item is one of the big selling points of this fine Studebaker we handle. . . . The whole car is in tune . . . from its streamlined beauty to its amazing power plant under the hood. Speed, power, comfort, economy, all wrapped up in one beautiful to look at package. If you haven't driven the Studebaker yet, you've missed the thrill of a lifetime. Why not drop in for a demonstration. If you have a good story, bring it with you.

We're not given to rubbing elbows with the wealthy. As a matter of fact, we're usually one of the many that stand back and wonder how they got it. But last week, in walks a character that has money written all over him. He wants to buy a couple of our finer motor cars, for his son and daughter and during the process tells us of his turning farmer and the many acres of territory he purchases, complete with chickens, cows and other accessories. "Wonderful," we say, "and do all the cows give milk?"

"Yeah, they do," he answers, "and with a slight shrug adds, 'of course in my position, they really don't have to.'"

Well, hurry for the cows, not having to work. We've got a flock of mechanics around and about, that the more they work, the better they eat and at this moment are wondering what happened to you. You're back from your vacation, but haven't brought the car in for a lubrication and a bit of motor check-up. Better do it soon, or you'll be as hungry as they are.

That's that, but did we ever tell you of the ancient proverb that goes: "man that admits he is wrong when he is wrong is wise . . . man that admits he's wrong when he's right . . . is married."

Yours, BOB KETTLER

Morel - Stanford Wedding Vows Exchanged In St. Agatha Rites

Barbara Joan Morel and William Walker Stanford were united in marriage at St. Agatha Church, Beech Road and Farmington, at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, August 16.

Rev. Father John T. Reid officiated at the double ring ceremony before a candle-lit altar decorated with white glads and mums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Morel of Glenmore Avenue, Detroit. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stanford of Dubuque Street, Northville.

Barbara Joan entered the church on the arm of her father while the choir sang "O Sanctissima." The wedding gown, designed by the bride, was fashioned of tulle and lace and nylon net, and consisted of a strapless formal topped with a lace jacket with long sleeves which came to a point over the wrist.

The jacket fastened with tiny satin covered buttons from the little wing collar to the waist, which was finished with a small flared peplum. A fingertip veil of tulle edged with lace was held in place by a bonnet of net trimmed with rhinestones and seed pearls. A cascade bouquet of red Happiness Roses completed the ensemble.

The bride's only attendants were her sisters, Mrs. Donald Heuser and Jeanette Morel. Their gowns were also strapless formal models of nylon net and topped with tulle and lace. Little net mitts and sweetheart bonnets completed their ensembles.

Mrs. Heuser's flowers were yellow roses and bronze mums in a cascade bouquet with yellow ribbon streamers to match her gown, and Jeanette carried yellow roses and mums, also in a cascade bouquet, with green ribbon streamers to match her gown.

The groom was attended by Robert Baker, his college roommate, and Charles Stanford, his brother. Ushers were Thomas

Stanford, the groom's cousin, and Donald Heuser.

Mrs. Morel, mother of the bride, wore a floor length gown fashioned of lavender chiffon and lace, with matching accessories. Mrs. Stanford, mother of the groom, chose coral chiffon for her floor length gown, with matching accessories. Both mothers wore an orchid corsage.

Among the out-of-town guests were Florence Kalling of Big Rapids; Mrs. Morel, great-aunt of the bride, of Sudbury, Canada; Richard Proulx, of Grand Rapids; Ed Norzyk of Saginaw; and Mr. and Mrs. A. Mallett of Dearborn.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Veterans Memorial Hall, Northville. From there Joan and Bill went on their three-week wedding trip which will take them to Niagara Falls, New York City, Tusculum, Alabama, and the Smokey Mountains.

For traveling the bride wore a suit dress of navy blue silk, featuring a brown velvet hat and tulle and lace shoes and bag. Her corsage was taken from the center of the bridal bouquet.

Upon their return to Michigan the bride and groom will make their home in Big Rapids, where Bill is attending Ferris Institute.

WINS ARCHITECT AWARD IN SMALL HOMES COMPETITION

Herbert L. Hawthorne and William E. Sexton, architectural designers associated with Charles D. Hannan, Architect, of Farmington, have won a $1,000.00 award for second prize in the National Small Homes Competition sponsored by Architectural Products Publications, Los Angeles.

William E. Sexton, son of Probate Judge James Sexton, was born in Detroit, educated in the Plymouth public schools, spent two years in the Navy at a cadet school, attended the University of Michigan and has worked one summer for McGraw-Hill. He is now an architectural firm.

Herbert L. Hawthorne was born in Detroit, educated in Detroit Parochial Schools, Henry Ford Trade School and Miami Tech of Miami, Florida. His architectural practical experience has been spent in the firms of Olev Polivitsky of Miami, Joseph J. DeBrito, Miami, Smith Higgins and Griggs of Detroit, O'Neil, Hewitt & Luckenbach, Detroit, and is now employed by Charles D. Hannan of Farmington.

Previous awards this year for architectural designs were the Howard T. Keating House Competition, second prize of $400.00; and Concrete Masonry Home Competition, third prize of $500.00. Both competitions were sponsored by The Michigan Society of Architects.

Northville Gardeners To Hold 13th Show

Members of garden clubs throughout the area are invited to attend the 13th annual Flower Show of the Northville Branch, Women's National Farm and Garden Association, to be held at the Northville Methodist Church on September 11.

Mrs. R. D. Merriman, president, has named Mrs. F. E. Jennings as general chairman, and Mrs. Jennings and her committee have arranged a diversified program for the day. The theme of the show will be "Autumn's in the Air". It will feature prize exhibits of flowers, fruits, vegetables, specimens and arrangements, as selected at a judging immediately preceding the show. The judges will be Mrs. A. T. Peterson of Livonia and Boyd Candlish of Farmington, grower of prize gladioli.

There will be booths for the sale of baked goods, jams and jellies, and Mrs. Frank C. Zebornick of Farmington has again presented one of her original oil paintings for sale by the club. Afternoon and tropical garden punch will be served.
