Vice-president Glenn Evans called the Student Council to order and the minutes were read and approved at the meeting on Tuesday, September 18.

Election day for the Student Council president was September 24. Prior to the election an assembly was held. A scholastic average of "C" or better was required for candidates. Those running for the office were Anne Allan, Howard Goers and Ruth Richardson.

A discussion was held about having school buses for the out-of-town games. As of now we are unable to get transportation from the buses.

The Senior Class sponsored a bake sale on Wednesday, September 24.

Business of electing a person to represent the Council at all league meetings was tabled until the next meeting.

ROLLING DOWN THE RIVER

By Bob Kettler

Now it's a matter of fact that a fellow in the garage to give his car a bit of a check-up tells us he's here simply to escape a domestic crisis in his home. Not that he is involved here wants us to understand, but the lady of the house, in the course of her duties, shortens a pair of fun-fun new slacks. Because of a time lag, she measures one leg like a tape measure and the other with a yardstick.

"The war begins," says our refugee husband-father, "when Junior limps in, in his newly altered trousers and demonstrates, to his startled mother, that twenty-eight inches on the tape measure comes out thirty inches on the yardstick."

No matter what standard of measurement you happen to use on the lovely new Student-baker, it always comes out the same way... the best. Whether you want power, beauty, comfort or economy there's just no way in getting around the Student-baker V-8 Commander or the Student-baker Champion.

Of course we'll admit that you ought to drive the car first, because after all, there's nothing like a demonstration. Come on in... you'll convince yourself.

Well this is the season that this year's graduate begins to realize the Sheepskin he got last June should have had a little more meat on it!

Then again, there's many a gal in her thirties who believes a little white lie about her age is strictly from all right and can't understand why the camera won't go along with the idea.

That is one of the nice things about our shop. The fellows out there don't tell any little white lies, they don't have to. When they tell you the car is okay, well it's okay... and when they tell you it needs some adjustment of one sort or another, well it needs those adjustments. Be a good idea if you brought the car in and asked their opinion. It's a clutch, the way you're being driven, the car can stand the test of lubrication and a bit of new oil any way.

That's that, but have you ever stopped to consider what a rough life a moth lives... all summer in a fur coat and then all winter in a bathing suit.

Yours,

STUDENT ATTENDS JOURNALISM COURSE ON M. S. C. CAMPUS

Michigan State College, through the Continuing Education Service, offered a fifth annual course in high school journalism. The conference, held on the East Lansing campus from June 23 to July 3, attracted 63 journalists from numerous high schools throughout Michigan.

The Clarencville Kampus Krier, always seeking to better itself, sponsored its former editor, Annie Allan, to the conference. The journalists lived at Phillips Dormitory and attended classes all over the campus. The classes, taught by college professors, included feature and news writing, photography, copy reading and editing, management problems and a special workshop where students put out either mimeographed or printed newspapers. Annie worked on the mimeographed 'Phillips Post', which was reported to be the best in the five years that the course has been offered.

This conference gave the students an insight on college life; living in a dorm, attending classes taught by college professors, and last but not least, the social life of a college student. The students of this course will have a reunion luncheon on October 15, when journalism day will be held on the East Lansing campus.

Frosh Gridmen Set For Bentley

Mr. Robert Selke was appointed coach of the newly formed freshman football team by Mr. Harry McKittick. Mr. McKittick stated that there were 32 boys competing for spots on the team. He also stated that this was the largest number of freshman football men that Clarencville has ever had.

A two-hour practice session has been held every night to prepare the boys for a game with Bentley High on October 31. To date that is the only game on the frosh schedule, but arrangements are being made with other surrounding schools for additional games.

On Tuesday, September 16, the freshmen were put to their first test in an inter-squad scrimmage with the reserve team, in which they demonstrated a good offense by rolling to four first downs in a row. Coach Selke announced, "They are progressing well and show a great team spirit."

Pep Club Maps Season's Plans

Clarencville cheerleaders are all set to go for the season with new blouses and just-cleaned uniforms and a brain full of ideas.

One of their main ideas is to have a pep club. This club will be a group of students who are interested in cheering at the games and helping the cheerleaders plan pep meetings and work on game publicity.

The students in the club will have a reserved seat in a section of the bleachers where they will help to pep up the crowd with yells.

EDITORIAL: "WHAT IS FREEDOM?"

What is "freedom" to you? Do you cherish it? Are you thankful for it or haven't you given it much thought?

Freedom stands for many things: freedom of speech, religion, press and countless other rights that we in America take for granted.

You see, we forget that it wasn't always this way. We also forget that in many other countries freedoms, such as these, are unheard of.

Yes, we have many rights in our country, but let's go back in our history to the time when we didn't have them.

The date is April 19, 1775. The place is a green in Lexington. There sixty militiamen stood, these men were American colonists and they faced Major John Pitcheira and his "red coats". The militiamen and their Captain, John Parker, fired a volley and seven of them fell. They were the first Americans to give their lives for freedom and liberty. Why did these seven fall at Lexington?

They wanted freedom to speak, to be able to write what they wished in their newspapers and have the right to vote for the men they wanted to lead their country, not the men the King of England picked for them.

At the end of the Revolutionary War we set up a government by the people, for the people, and of the people. But twice since this period in our history our democracy and nation have been threatened. On July 28, 1914, all of Europe was inflamed with the fires of war. At length, on April 6, 1917, the United States entered the First World War. We were able to defeat the central powers and so once again the blood of American men was spilled to preserve the rights and freedoms their forefathers had died for. But this was not the last battle. The twenty years between the time of the Versailles Treaty was signed on June 28, 1919, and the time Germany invaded Poland in September, 1939, was more like an armed truce than a period of peace.

We tried to stay out of this war, but when our ships and men were bombed and killed at Pearl Harbor, we were forced to join against Japan and later on against Germany.

The horrors of the First World War were nothing compared to the ones in the Second. After four years of battles, the war's end came in 1945 and the United States had once more defended herself successfully.

Now we see that the privileges and rights we have today were not just dumped in our laps, but were fought for by our ancestors. Just achieving them wasn't the end, we have to protect them just as our nation did in the two World Wars.

If the blood of ancestors achieved and preserved these freedoms, the American people should take advantage of them. We students in school have as much a chance to take advantage of our freedoms as the adults do. We can do it by expressing our views on politics and our country in classrooms, debates on better world governments, filling our school newspapers with articles containing news and opinions we think it should contain, and by voting for the

JUNIOR CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS, SETS DUES

Cheerleaders Hold Pre-Game Pep Meet

The Clarencville Trojans started off their gridiron season against the South Lyon Lions on Friday, September 19. Before the game a pep meeting was held in the gym by the cheerleaders.

Mr. McKittick introduced the captain, Milton Daily, and the line-up for that game. The cheerleaders led yells and the band played, sending our boys off to their first game with high hopes of victory.
