Episcopal Auxiliary To Meet January 5

The Women's Auxiliary of Trinity Episcopal Church will have its next meeting Monday, January 5, at 8:00 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Egan, 24467 Orchard Lake Road.

... spoke on the topic "What Democrats Can Do to Protect the Gains of the Past Twenty Years and To Build for Victory in 1954".

Temporary officers were elected to work with the Oakland County Democratic Committee on organizational details, and to plan the future activities of this group.

New Drivers License Bureau

Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder, center, in charge of the Farmington Driver's License Bureau, issues a license to Clarence C. Lyman, 21107 Waldron, while Mrs. Lyman stands by in the new Bureau office on the second floor of the Fire Hall building. The new office was completed and put into operation last week. Prior to this time the Driver's License Bureau was located in the police department on the first floor of the building. Crowded conditions necessitated the change.

Air Force Officers Pay Visit To Spotter Post

The Farmington Air Spotter post was paid a surprise visit by two Air Force officers on Wednesday, December 10.

The officers said that for three days they had been visiting various posts and that the one here was the only one they found open. One of the officers, Lt. Tulin, stated that the Farmington post was one of the finest he had seen and expressed satisfaction that the post was open even though the visibility was very poor at the time.

Many departments of state government were in chaos. Before the fire was even out, the department of administration was renting, buying, borrowing and stealing quarters for the displaced employees. In three weeks offices were set up in all corners of Lansing and East Lansing in quarters that would make a rabbit warren look like the Taj Mahal.

State departments were operating out of vacant stores, a condemned V.M.C.A. building, quarters built at Michigan State College, an auditorium in quarters the ceiling had collapsed only a year before, an old bus station and the armory.

By spring the clean-up work at the building was largely done and it was that long before the legislature got around to approving bids for the reconstruction.

The rebuilding is almost completed. Adrian N. Langius, director of the building division, was as good as his word, and despite the removal of the top two floors, the building will house as many workers as it previously did. This he accomplished by utilizing waste spaces in the basement, narrowing corridors and the like.

The new Stephen T. Mason building, now under construction, is expected to provide quarters for an additional 1,500 workers when it is opened next July or August.

But the government will still have some 1,300 workers still in rented space throughout Lansing. The new building and the renovation of the old will take some of the pressure off Michigan's crowded facilities, but is not yet the complete

AIDS TB SEAL SALE

One of radio's top commentators, Robert Trout, has narrated a fifteen minute transcribed documentary for radio broadcast which tells the people who buy and use Christmas Seals how their money is spent in controlling and preventing tuberculosis in every part of the United States. The show is being broadcast by stations throughout the country during the current Christmas Seal Sale Drive ending on Christmas Day.
