

Wheat production for 1953 will be above the demand at current prices. Wheat acreage allotments appear likely for fall, in order to get a 25 to 30 per cent cut in wheat production for 1954.

BEST LAWNS RESULT FROM USING CORRECT TYPE OF GRASS FOR SOIL

If you have fed, top-dressed and aerated that thin, patchy lawn, what kind of grass should you put in to make it look as green as an English pasture?

Maybe yours is one of the old lawns seeded with sun-loving grass to begin with. But the trees have since grown up, and the lawn has become partly shaded. It will be necessary for you to put in some grass which will grow in part shade.

The meadow fescues will do so, but they are a tender grass and do not stand the busy feet of children. Sheep's fescue is very tough but too bunched, although it is especially good for dry soils.

Best all-around grass here is probably New Zealand red fescue. It is tough, withstands those running feet, makes an even, rich green carpet, and will grow either in the sun or part shade. It has the further merit of growing in sandy soil. It also does very well in clay soil which has been broken up with humus.

Recommended mixture for putting in grass to grow in part shade conditions is about 30 per cent New Zealand red fescue, about 30 per cent Kentucky blue grass and the rest a mixture of various grasses to give a quick start.

Where shade has become very heavy and no grass will grow, you could pave the area or plant shade-enduring evergreen cover growth like myrtle or Japanese spurge.

It is best to seed just before the early fall rains, say the last week of August or the first week of September, using fresh seed. Early fall planting will establish the growth of the grass before winter sets in. You can plant your lawn in the spring of the year, but usually persons wait until so late in it out. If the grass is started in October, it is wise to mix it with rye grass as a nurse grass.

When watering the lawn, do not sprinkle lightly and frequently. This is the worst thing you can do, since grass roots stay near the surface and dry out rapidly between waterings. Best procedure is to soak the ground once a week during dry weather, or every two weeks in moderately wet weather. This method pulls the grass roots deeper into the ground.

CUB CAPERS

This is to announce the June meeting for Pack 45. It is being held at the Farmington City Club on Sunday, June 21, at 5:00 p.m. The program will consist of a number of contests plus refreshments.

This is a father and son Pack meeting. Urge the boys to bring their fathers with them, but not to stay home if father can't come. Each Cub will have to bring his own beverage and hot dogs and bun.

Transportation is not usually a problem, but if so call Mr. Burke at Farmington 2676-1 not later than Friday, June 19.

SAVINGS GREAT IN MADE-OVER CHILDREN'S DUDS

Look at some of those out-dated clothes in your closet with an eye to making them over for children, or grandchildren, suggests Lola Belle Green, clothing specialist at Michigan State College. Out-dated clothes can be made attractive and they're big money savers.

Consider the material in an old garment first, she advises. Is it suitable for the child in color, texture and design? As a general rule firm, closely-woven fabrics that are light in weight and soft to the touch are best for a child's clothing needs. Gay colors are much better than drab or harsh shades that adults sometimes wear (and shouldn't).

Check on the present condition of the old garment. Sometimes the old article is so worn it will not be practical to remake it for a child.

Miss Green recommends making the new garment along the lines of the old one if possible.
