Dr. Claunch, whose private practice includes individual, marital and family psychotherapy, has stated:

"The most important thing a parent can do is to help his child develop a sense of con-fidence in his own thinking ability and choose from val-ues in a complicated world."

aprent can do its to help his child develop a sense of confidence in his own thinking ability and choose from values in a complicated world.

The 'psychologist carned his doctorale from Princeton University in 1984 and did his post doctoral internship at Merrill - Palmer Institute in Detroil. Later he was on the institute staff before going into private practice.

Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic parish in Farmington gave a reception Sunday, April 29, to honor its pastor. Bishop Joseph L. Imesch, D.D.

Bishop Imesch, who has been serving in the OLS parish since September 1971, was appointed to his present post Feb. 20, 1973, and conservated April 3.

He came to the Farming and the starting in the conservated April 3.

The work of the people here, they have been to be people here, they have been to the people here, they have been to realize again the good the priestly presence can do and how much people depend on their priestly. "Bishop Imesch was born in 1831 in Grosse Pointe Farms. His parents immigrated to this country from Switzerland, and most of his relatives outside the Immediate family still live there. He attended St. Ambrose elementary school and St. Paul high school before entering Sacred Heart Seminary, Later he was accepted for major theology education at the Gregorian University in Rome, and he was ordained in Rome Dee. 15, 1956.

dained in Rome Dec. 15, 1956. His pastoral assignments were at St. Mary's of Red-ford and St. Charles before he was called to the position as Cardinal Dearden's secretary.

At Our Lady of Sorrows, he said, he is grateful to work with "the good parish team here. He mentioned particularly Mggr. Thomas Beahan, iwho retired recently after long service to the parish but still helps in its work; the Rev. Robert Rokusek, associate pastor, and Tim Pelc, deacon from $L. John seminary iwho began work at Sorrows this spring.
