In Little-Bigger League

The Re-Nu Tool, Red Sox and The Enterprise, Giants of the Farmington Little-Bigger League, completed the final game of the current season on Monday evening, August 10, and the Red Sox drubbed the league leaders by a 7-1 score.

Curt Love was on the mound for the third-place Six and he assured his team of third place in the final standings by allowing but five hits.

Ray Porter made his first start on the mound for the Giants but was relieved after two innings after giving up five runs. He was replaced by Gould McLean.

The six and the eight, cousin play in the league and left only the annual award banquet to look forward to in the baseball festivities for this year.

Final plans are under way for the banquet, which will be held after the start of school this fall. Well known sports personalities are expected to be on hand for the festivity and both individual and team awards will be made.

Announcements as to time and place of the banquet will be made by league officials at a later date.

Resigns

WILLIAM NUSE

This week the Farmington School Board reluctantly accepted the resignation of William Nuse, who has accepted the position of Superintendent of the Sunpter Township School at Belleville, Michigan.

In his letter to the Board Nuse stated that his relationships with the administration and staff during his five year stay at Farmington were very cordial and that it is with some regret that he leaves.

Nuse served as an instructor and coach at the high school and as the first director of the Farmington Area Recreation Commission.

He was always popular with the students and his team and, according to his letter, it is the memory of these boys that will stick with the coach for many years.
