CATCHES EEL

Kenneth Thompson, towerman for the conservation department's Grayling fire station, recently caught a native chestnut lamprey eel while trout fishing in Crawford County. Thompson was fly fishing and apparently snagged the eel through the mouth parts while drawing his line through the water.

SCHOLARSHIPS STILL AVAILABLE AT WAYNE U.

Scholarships are still available to faculty, students and qualified citizens throughout the United States for foreign study during 1954-55, according to Dean John J. Lee of Wayne University's Graduate School.

Dean Lee is serving as chairman of the local selection committee for the scholarships offered under the Fulbright Act and the Buenos Aires Convention. The Institute of International Education announces that over 38 countries are participating in the programs.

The scholarships generally include round-trip transportation, tuition, maintenance allowance and sums for necessary books. Applicants for awards under the Buenos Aires Convention plan must contribute to their own living expenses.

Basic eligibility requirements include U. S. citizenship, superior scholarship, a college degree or its equivalent, knowledge of the language of the country sufficient to carry on studies abroad and good health.

Application forms and instruction sheets may be secured in Room 4, Graduate School, 6167 Cass. All forms must be completed and filed with the Graduate School by October 1, 1953.

BLEACH WITH CARE

If you use synthetic detergents in your washing you may add chlorine bleach to the wash water just as you use flake bluing. But do not use the new powdered chlorine bleaches with soap. There are new perborate bleaches on the market which are safe for regular bleaching without danger of damage to fabric or color.
