

County Chapter Gives Polio Funds

The Oakland County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has sent $1,000 from local March of Dimes funds to National Headquarters of the polio-fighting organization as its share of the estimated $500,000 cost for field tests this fall of a possible polio vaccine.

Pierre Delmontier, chapter chairman, said the money was sent in response to an urgent appeal by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation. Delmontier stated that the executive committee of the Oakland County Chapter meeting on Tuesday, September 8, had voted unanimously to do its part in speeding the triumph of science over polio. The practice of extending help on a nationwide basis, he continued, is basic to the National Foundation, as since 1941 National Headquarters has sent $170,750 to augment local March of Dimes funds to care for Oakland County polio patients.

At the present time the Oakland County Chapter is paying bills for 152 polio victims, 36 stricken this year and 116 in preceding years and still requiring care and treatment.

"Our grateful thanks to all who have contributed to the March of Dimes thus making it possible for us to not only aid the victims of this dread disease, but also to participate in the coming field tests of a possible vaccine," Delmontier concluded.

C.A.P. Squadron Serves This Area

An organization in the Farmington-Livonia area which has seen most rapid growth since it was activated on May 28 of this year is the Livonia Civil Air Patrol Squadron, which is composed of Farmington and Livonia personnel.

Officers of the organization have been eager to point out that membership in the squadron is strictly voluntary.

The squadron offers invaluable training to boys and girls from 14½ years and up.

The organization operates as a civilian air force and lists four principal purposes: (1) search and rescue; (2) nationwide radio (mobile) (3) cadet training program and (4) furtherance of aviation.

Under the cadet system, qualified personnel in the squadron teach students first aid, communications, drill, physical training and airplane orientation.

All of the training comes to the cadet at no cost and the Air Force makes available to the group certain training manuals and materials which are now obsolete for military use.

The lone cost to the cadet is the price of the CAP uniform. After the cadet has received his merit of award, he can enter the Air Force as a Flying Cadet and, because of his CAP training, the two-year college qualification is waived.

The Livonia group at present lists ten seniors and twenty cadets on its roster and Captain Leonard Lentz, group commander, says that the organization can use other young people who would like to receive the training.

The squadron meets each Tuesday from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m. at the Clarenceville High School. To

Birmingham D.A.R. Plans Annual Antique Show

The Piety Hill Chapter of the D.A.R. of Birmingham, Michigan, will stage their third annual Antique Show on September 30, October 1, 2 and 3.

Mr. Sam Yeagley, who is the manager of the show, includes only dealers of authentic antiques among his exhibitors.

Mrs. Thomas Navin is general chairman and Mrs. Walter Kleinfelder is vice chairman of the event to be held, as in previous years, at the Community House on the corner of South Bates and Townsend Streets in Birmingham.

The show will be open daily from 1:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. through the four days. All who enjoy antiques are invited to attend.

The group has various pieces of equipment furnished by the Air Force, including an L-17 squadron plane. More recently they have purchased an ambulance.

According to Lt. John McClelland, squadron commander, the group intends to cooperate and coordinate its activity with civil defense groups and make use of the training it is constantly receiving.

Everyone connected with the CAP group believes that it has a great future but they want more people to realize what they are working to accomplish.

Several members of the Homer Colman family of Shadyside Avenue attended the Sheets re-union near Fort Wayne last week end. Mrs. Gerald Roberts of Mayfield Avenue was in the group.

'Avoid Bears,' Game Men Say

"Never trust a bear" is one of the soundest bits of wildlife advice conservation department game men have to offer.

Bears are notoriously treacherous and even animals long believed tame have been known to display wild, brute tendencies.

A tragic example of this occurred in Arizona recently when a three-year-old child was mauled and killed by a "tame" bear. The bear had been purchased as a cub three years ago and was reared by its owners.

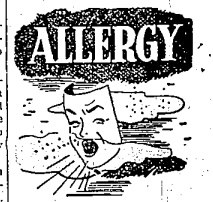

The child had been playing with the animal near the family residence when the tragedy occurred. When the child's mother tried to interfere, she was chased and escaped injury only when a neighbor, aroused by the commotion, shot the bear.

Throughout Michigan's north country, a number of semi-wild bears are known as regular visitors of woodland garbage dumps.

"In the stomach of a young four-tride wounded on Mackinac Island.

The memorial lecture is another tribute to Dr. Beaumont from Michigan's doctors of medicine, who will dedicate a Beaumont Memorial on Mackinac Island in July, 1954. The Mackinac shrine is a reconstruction of the building where an accidental gunshot in 1822 started Dr. Beaumont on his monumental research project.

As tourist attractions they are unparalleled, but department game men warn photographers and interested northern visitors to regard the animals with extreme caution at all times.

Report Local Shifts In Park Attendance

Some local shifts have been noted in attendance at state parks in recent weeks, the conservation department reports.

Camping throughout the north has definitely reached a slack period in many parks, and some managers also note a decline in weekly attendance totals. Parks in the more southern part of the state, however, are still recording large weekly attendance totals and camping at a number of sites is already above last year's total.
