At This Point . . .

all of the election prophets and predictors are expected to make a statement. In this statement there is supposed to be some clue as to why the voting went as it did.

We will not attempt to come up with any over-all analysis of the election results. In the first place, this has already been done by numerous experts, both within and outside the two major political parties. In the second place, the reasons are so confused and so varied that it is next to impossible to single it down to specific key points.

The Enterprise urged the election of four main candidates, two of whom were successful, George Dandero, U. S. Representative, and William Broomfield, State Senator. The other two candidates, Donald Leonard and Homer Ferguson, were defeated. Regardless of the "whys and wherefores" the people have spoken and in a democracy that is what counts.

Even more significant, however, than the actual election results, was the record turn out of voters. For the first time in many off-year elections, a majority of the registered voters went to the polls in the Farmington community. Approximately 61% of the qualified electors expressed themselves in the American way. Whether their candidates won or lost, they fulfilled their responsibilities as citizens.

One logical conclusion can be drawn from Tuesday's election without hesitation, and that is that the people have spoken . . . not just in a whisper but in a shout. Let's hope that it doesn't die down again, but continues to grow in force. Democracy must be used if it is to remain strong and its use rests in the hands of the people.

campaign is now over for all intent and purposes. Indications are that the final total will surpass previous records, although it is expected to run short of the established goal.

The increased collection is due largely to the improved organization of the Farmington Area United Fund and Community Chest as well as the hard work of the chairman, captains and individual solicitors. The problems of conducting such a campaign in the Farmington area are tremendous. A long range selling job must be done in order to convince residents of the importance of contributing at home. An excellent start was made this year and it must be continued.

An even greater effort must be made in the direction of selling the program to our merchants and businessmen. They, probably more than anyone else, have a stake in the future welfare of the community. The United Fund organization is a vital part of that future. Without the increased interest and support of all elements of the community, it can not hope to meet the growing demands being imposed upon it. The response by businessmen and individual residents has been greater than ever before, and that is the way it must be if we are to reap the benefits.

Although the drive is over, funds are still being received. So, if you haven't given . . . do it today! Send your contribution to Joseph DeNies, treasurer, 31635 Allison, Farmington, Michigan. Let's all do our part!

New Fuel . . .

has been added to the lamp of hope as far as the possible extension of water service to the Farmington area is concerned.

Strengthening the Dike

Michigan Mirror

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

SPORTSMEN and resort owners breathed easier as the Michigan Water Resources Commission disclosed its latest stream and lake pollution survey.

Milton P. Adams, executive secretary, complimented industries on new waste disposal systems and said "marked improvement" has been made.

"We're complimenting the industries involved because they deserved it," he said.

It was just a year ago that Michigan had its infamous fishing episode in Allegan Lake. Hydrogen sulfide in the Kalamazoo River at the same time gave off fumes which damaged the paint on nearby houses.

The survey completed this fall shows that pollution has been greatly reduced along the river and in adjoining lakes. The fish are returning in great numbers.

Of the 15 sampling stations, one was above the City of Kalamazoo at Comstock bridge; three were inside the city; two below Kalamazoo and above Plainwell; two inside Plainwell; one at the Otsego dam; three below Otsego and above Allegan; and the final three were at M-28 and M-40 bridges and the municipal dam below Allegan.

Adams gave credit for part of the improvement to the Otsego Falls Paper Mills which disposed of its solid wastes and pulp mill liquors on the roads rather than in the river.

Others giving praises were Allied Paper Mills Monarch Division, St. Regis Paper Co., Rex Paper Co., National Gypsum Co., Mill No. 2 of Kalamazoo Paper and Pulp Co., and 7 of Sutherland Paper, the KVV Plant at Plainwell, Michigan Paper Co. at Plainwell and Mac Sim Bar Co. at Otsego.

The survey and the compliments to the industries ended a typical cycle -- with the commission directing an operation aimed at keeping the streams and lakes free from rotters and sportsmen.

Industries have been hailed before the commission, some of them taken into court, for polluting the streams.

LOOKING AHEAD

By GEORGE S. BENSON
Principal - Hastings College
Searcy, Arkansas

America is confronted today with a Communist-Socialist form which has as one of its primary tactical goals the undermining of young America's respect for our basic principles and institutions.

Parents as this force has expanded its strength and effectiveness in nation after nation, I have been urging that American citizenship education, provided as part of the educational program in every school and college in the nation, as the best defense against the Communist-Socialist plan to capture the minds of our youth.

During the preceding several weeks this column has discussed a number of splendid and encouraging developments in American citizenship education. Since the official series began, two top officials of one of the major textbook companies have visited with me and some of the faculty members of Hastings College in Searcy, seeking suggestions for a series of school readers being prepared for grades four through eight.

It is heartening to see these present activities in a number of textbook companies. Teachers throughout the country have recognized the absence of adequate textbook materials with which to teach the favorable facts about America and its citizenship. They will welcome the new materials -- if interested citizens will see to it that they are brought to the attention of the teachers and school board members.

This is positive education in Americanism -- through textbooks featuring the positive advantages of citizenship under the American system. It is the kind of education we've desperately needed. A generation of youth armed with the true facts about Americanism and its unmatched living standard will not be vulnerable to the subtle persuasions of the Communist-Socialist propagandists of their conceited or unwitting dupes.

For ten years the people of California have been conducting studies and investigations of various aspects of education in their state, including infiltrations by the Communist-Socialist forces. A committee of the State Senate recently issued its eleventh report on the responsibilities of their committee, composed of members of both political parties, published important warnings and recommendations which might well be brought to the attention of the public in all 48 states.

"In our schools and public governmental activities there must be positive and assured Americanism and outspoken loyalty to American institutions of freedom," said the report of this California legislative committee. "Neutrality is not enough. Communism never respects neutrality. Neutrality is all the Communists seek or need on the part of American teachers and officials to enable them to take over this, the last stronghold of freedom."

"We have a right to expect that our youth are being given a thorough understanding of our American institutions. These institutions peculiar to America have provided the highest standard of living ever attained in the world, and at the same time, the widest distribution thereof among the population. This has only been possible because of our political liberties which are the basis and protection of our economic freedom and progress. An

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

Twenty-five years ago (November 14, 1920) To Pay Nine Mile
Another important east and west highway, Nine Mile Road, will be paved to connect with Grand River as part of the 1930 road building program of the Oakland County Road Commission. The paving project will run from Southfield Road, where paving now ends, to Grand River and connect with Grand River at a point just east of Farmington Junction, not far from the site of the Lake Drive Garage. Completion of Ten Mile Road to connect with Grand River is again listed on the County Road Commission program for next year.

Legionnaires Meet
Farmington was the scene of a meeting of the Sixth District of the American Legion of Michigan last Thursday evening with nearly 200 in attendance. Following business sessions in the afternoon a dinner was served at the Salem Evangelical Church. Dancing in the Town Hall in the evening concluded a full day program.

New Deputy
An additional deputy sheriff was designated for Farmington this week by County Sheriff Frank Schram, to assist present Deputy William Tamm. The new deputy is Charles Ramsay, formerly of the Detroit police force. He has now taken up his new duties here.

Electors of school districts in the City and Township of Farmington will be presented with the proposition of school consolidation at an election to be held Monday, November 27. It will not be necessary to be a registered school elector to vote on this issue. You must, however, either own property within the school district or be the parent or legal guardian of a child between ages 5 to 19.

A very novel and interesting program will be presented by the Farmington P. T. A. on November 21 at the Farmington High School. Eleventh grade students are sponsoring the evening program and will demonstrate many activities of high school for parents. The faculty will be present to meet and discuss any problem or activity with the parents.

Contract for the construction of a storage garage on the south corner of the Fire Hall was awarded by the City Commission Wednesday evening to local contractor Kenneth Kemp. Work on the 30 by 50 foot cement block construction is expected to start immediately. The building will house city trucks.

Eliminate Overtime Charges
An application from Michigan Bell Telephone for the elimination of overtime charges on all one-unit, interzone messages in the Detroit District Exchange has been approved by the Public Service Commission. For Farmington, starting November 19, overtime charges to Garfield and Kenwood central office areas in Detroit as well as Livonia will be removed. It was disclosed, Overtime charges to Walled Lake will be eliminated next year, it was stated.
