eight-day "week" that celebrates the glories of Michigan came with Youth Day. In a twin ceremony at the Farmington City Hall Saturday, beautification work of the Farmington area Boy and Girl Scouts was recognized, along with representatives from every youth-oriented activity in Farmington.

The dumber of youth groups was surprising to everyone but Earl Baumunk, school vocational director who organized the day.

There were 25 separate activities represented. Farmington's youth is served by the YMCA, Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Brownies, Girl Scouts, Little League, Junior Achievement, Farmington Flyers Hockey, Trail Blazers 4-H Club, DeMolay, Jobs Daughters, the Youth Employment Service, the Area Advisory Council, and the Recreation Commission.

Joan Barbrick, from the Farmington Beautification Commission, presented awards to 12 Girl Scout troops and two Boy Scout troops for their work in Farmington.

The two boy scout troops, 179 and 242, were previously honored by the City of Farmington for their efforts.

The Girl Scout troops and their leaders were: Troop 278, Mrs. Jan

LWV To Sponsor Candidates Night

FARMINGTON The six candidates in the June 11 Farmington school board election have been asked to speak at a public rally Thursday, June 7, under auspices of the West Bloomfield Farmington League of Women Voters.

The candidates night will be held in Farmington High School beginning at 8 p.m.

"Since the Farmington school board has been the center of controversy recently, I hope voters will take this opportunity to both meet the candidates and ask questions about our schools," said Mrs. Margaret Bowland of Farmington, the league's voters service chairman.

Candidates will make three-minute opening statements and then respond to questions from the floor.

Running for the two board vacancies are Kenneth Perrin, Rev. Hugh Stewart, Gary Lichtman, Mrs. Emma S. Makinen, Hartley Thornton and Carl E. Licht.

the recent "slave-for-a-day" fund raiser.

"Some kids from our club are working with the county committee on a food and nutrition program which will be used in work in ghetto areas," Denise says.

Among gifts which Denise received as Oakland County 4-H queen is a $200 scholarship, which she intends to apply toward her college education. She would like to go to the University of Michigan after she graduates from Farmington High School and her choice of careers is narrowed to two - physical therapy or social work.

As queen she feels a strong commitment to expand the knowledge of 4-H activities and combat a certain apathy she feels in many of her peers.

"I'd like to get more older kids aware of the things we do and arouse their interest in 4-H."

The 4-H years have served the family well. With horses, dogs, and life in general, Mr. and Mrs. Dingee and their daughters are all deeply involved and completely at ease.
