It's Our Opinion:

Steps Are Finally . . .

being taken to arrange a joint meeting between the City Council and the Township Board for the purpose of discussing the proposed construction of a new library for the Farmington area.

We say "finally" because the recommendations of the special library committee have been in the hands of both the City and Township for several months now without any action being taken. It is well recognized that the Council and the Board have a great many problems which must be taken care of. It is also recognized that a sizable number of these problems are more pressing than the development of new library facilities, such as water, sewage, zoning and planning.

Yet, it is our opinion that all elements of community development must be carried on simultaneously and with the utmost attention if we are to accomplish our objectives. A building is not built a block at a time. Many phases of construction are conducted together according to a definite plan and blueprint. So it must be with the construction of a community. It isn't an easy job and at times greater emphasis must be placed on one particular phase in order to keep the over-all project moving.

The development of improved library facilities is important to the welfare of the community. A definite plan has been outlined and a series of recommendations has been established. It is essential that this blueprint be reviewed as quickly as possible so that it can be coordinated with the other phases of community construction, either now under way or on the planning board.

It should be emphasized that both the city and township are moving at an ever-increasing pace. Thus the problems are not only becoming greater but they are becoming more frequent as well. Unless each problem is analyzed as quickly as possible and worked into an over-all plan of development, we stand a chance of being completely snowed under.

The action of the City Council in regard to the library proposal is constructive. More of this type of joint coordination and expression between the city and township should be encouraged. It can be the means of hastening progressive action through the solving of the many common problems facing the community.

The Class Of 1955 . . .

will hear many sound words of wisdom before this week is over. We hope that they listen carefully and, more important, we hope they remember.

The receiving of a high school diploma denotes an important milestone in the life of any young man or woman, but it is a long way from the end of the education trail. The processes of learning continue on as long as life itself. The successful completion of high school is but a challenge to the adventure that lies ahead.

Some of the Class of 1955 will go to institutions of higher learning, others will enter the military service, while still others will take up a business or a trade. The actual choice is not so important as is the application. Many people in this country have become concerned over both the so-called younger generation and the future. This is not new, it was true 25 years ago and it will be true 25 years from now.

There is no shortage of ability or ambition among those graduating this week, nor is there any ceiling on the opportunities that lie ahead. If anything, the challenges are greater today than ever before. The Class of 1955 has already proven its ability . . . the next task will be to prove its usability. A piece of copper ore is not so valuable in itself . . . it is what it can be fashioned into that's important.

Ability, like copper ore, must be fashioned into a useful product of service if it is to fulfill its purpose. This is the real challenge to the Class of 1955.

That Word "Security" . . .

has really been getting a going over the past several weeks as a result of the labor-management negotiations in the auto industry. It seems to be the one golden nugget that everyone is reaching for.

Digging for such a gem is understandable. We all want security and a margin of protection, that's human nature. But we can't help wondering what this gem will really be worth when it's safely resting in the palm of the hand. Will it be 14 carat or just gilt paint?

A Lot More to Hatch

MICHIGAN WILL HAVE A Fair Employment Practices Commission for better or for worse.

After 13 years of trying, the supporters of the plan to outlaw discrimination, succeeded in getting the bill through the legislature.

By definition, it is aimed at employers who overlook qualifications of job seekers and make their decisions on the basis of race, creed, color, national ancestry or origin.

Michigan will organize a six-member bipartisan commission to administer the law. There will be qualified powers of subpoena to compel witnesses to testify and to obtain business records.

The law will make it illegal to inquire into a job applicant's religion, race or ancestry. The commission will hear complaints but cannot start action on its own.

But what about enforcing the law?

No employer can be punished directly, except through contempt of court when the issue goes that far on appeal from the commission.

Actually, conciliation is the stock in trade of the new Michigan FEPC law.

Employers will be asked to take another look at a disappointed applicant. The key will be his qualifications and the law has a number of interesting loopholes on that score.

Another of the informal enforcement weapons will be publicity and the ignominy of being called out before the commission for a hearing on discrimination.

His enemies are intent on crippling the law, a carryover from legislative wars. One said: "This is merely employment by embarrassment."

Politically, both Democrats and Republicans expect to benefit. Democrats have been campaigning for FEPC for years in Michigan and the proposals always have had a Republican sponsor.

The leader in Michigan was Rep. Louis C. Cranston (R-Lapeer). Both parties have included an FEPC plank in party platforms in the last few years.

Cranston has been carrying the ball virtually alone in the House for years. This year, he asked Democratic leaders to be co-sponsors of the bill and he plotted it through.

"We realized that FEPC is not a political thing," he said. "The last legislative battle was

In the massive outpouring of Communist literature from Russia and its satellites, and from printing presses in the free world, the Communists are distributing two kinds of literature. One type is propaganda. They call the other kind "agit literature."

Dr. Fred Schwarz, the Australian surgeon - physician who left his profession to crusade against Communism throughout the free world, has made an exhaustive study of Red literature. He displayed books and pamphlets in a speech he made at the 120th Annual Forum conducted by The National Education Program at Searcy, Arkansas.

"The Communists," he said, "define 'propaganda' literature as that which conveys many ideas to a few people. Theoretical textbooks are of this nature. These are directed primarily to the student and those whom the Communists want for the Communist Party as conspirators, organizers and leaders. Propaganda for them, and for the people as a whole -

"The Communists define 'agit literature' as that which conveys one idea to many people. They take an idea, like the unfortunate death of a six-year-old fisherman, and inject it with 100 times the force of the Pacific test. They use it as a barb to repeatedly drive it into the hearts of the people, to create inflammation, fear, bitterness and hatred."

He picked up a book, "Hefe," he said, "we have Communism with its Sunday-morning-to-church face on. Here is the peace textbook put out in Los Angeles.

"It's beautiful. They have pictures of all the ministers you'd want to see, of little children - and when you read it superficially, you get a picture of glowing peace around the world. But when you read more carefully, you find the vicious slanders and lies."

He turned to a page in which a Negro Communist holds "the glories" of the Soviet Union and brands America as a place "where our homes are burned, our daughters raped, our sons murdered."

Dr. Schwarz picked up another book, "Here," he said, "we have Communism with its good face not so obvious. This booklet is circulated throughout the world in multiplied millions of copies in many languages. This is the American edition. It is entitled, 'Report on War Crimes in Korea.' I bought it in the Communist bookstore in Los Angeles, 1806 West 7th Street - openly sold, no camouflage whatsoever. It is a combination of the filthiest and most treasonable lies ever put together in one volume."

He read the following from the booklet: "According to the evidence of Wong Won Gon, chairman of the People's Committee, 25,332 civilians were murdered in the district of Sinchon . . . On October 18, 1950, behind the building of the People's Committee, the murder of about 900 men and women, including 300 children, was committed. Some of

Later, back in Michigan, he said Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic nominee, was the odd-choice but that Williams would be proud to be considered "just another American sound."

That was the official line out of Williams' office until last week. In August, Ga., where he lambasted the administration's foreign policy, Williams said he would be happy to be the candidate in 1956 "if the opportunity arose."

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (June 19, 1930)
 Grand River Widening

Grand River road is to be made 40 feet wide between Farmington and Novi, according to authoritative information obtained recently. The State Highway Department is planning completion of the project by the end of the construction season next year. Ten-foot strips of concrete will be placed on each side of the present road. This is but the beginning of a more comprehensive program, which calls for the widening of Grand River to 10 feet all the way to Lansing, according to the report. On the Cut-Off, barriers have been removed from the Farmington Road entrance and it was now possible to drive for some distance east on the new pavement. Laying of the concrete has been completed as far as Grand River.

Bids for construction of the sewer system extension in the City of Farmington this summer have been called for. Bids will be opened and read June 30. It is hoped to start construction of the Grand River section of the sewer by early next month. Difficulty has been encountered in the matter of right-of-way from Maple Street east to the Rouge River. Easement on private property must be obtained in order to make this possible. No satisfactory agreement has been reached between the city and the owner of the property.

Playground Program
 The summer playground program in Farmington started on Monday with 25 boys and girls answering the roll. A program from 10 a.m. to 12 noon has been arranged for boys' affairs in the four to nine year age group and one from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. is scheduled for children in the ten to thirteen year age group. Boys in the afternoon group are now organizing a baseball team.

Bond Premiere
 A Bond Premiere will be conducted at the City Theatre on Tuesday evening, June 26. Free tickets to the premiere will be given for the purchase of a War Bond. This is the only way a ticket may be obtained. No regular admission tickets will be sold.

Building Code
 Charges were made by the Board of Appeals that the City Zoning Ordinance and Building Code have been violated by the C. M. Construction Company. The violations were reported to the City Commission Wednesday evening in connection with buildings under construction in the Floral Park section of the city. There has been a violation due to a failure to allow necessary side yards. The required in violation due to a failure to allow necessary side yards. The required in violation due to a failure to allow necessary side yards. The required in violation due to a failure to allow necessary side yards.

Financial Report
 The annual financial statement for Farmington Township will be published this year upon requests made by the Farmington Township Civic Association. This was disclosed by Township Clerk Harry McGracken at a meeting of the Township Board Tuesday evening. Although not required by law, it was deemed a responsibility of the Board to keep the taxpayers informed on how their money is being spent.
