"Serving the Area Between 8 and 9 Mile From Tuck to Inkster Road"

Lorna Rice Phone 0356-M

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gross returned to their home this week after a two week vacation. They visited relatives in Hoopston, Illinois, and then went to Statten Island, New York, to visit their son, Fred, and his family. This was a happy occasion for the Grosses as they saw their new granddaughter, Cheryl Ann, for the first time. She was born July 5.

Council in Pontiac Thursday night. Those attending were May Fox, Beatrice Carpenter, Louise Reniff, Florence Spies and Lorna Rice.

On Wednesday, the Ralph Sparrow family moved to a farm near Mayfield, Kentucky. They formerly lived on Radcliffe Street. They will be missed by their many friends.

Bob Gross of Tuck Road returned home this week after spending the past two weeks with a "buddy," Bob Snell, in Gwin, Michigan.

Kim Burkman, Ronnie Tucker and Bobbie Rice of Albion Street were quite brave when they got their second polo shot in Royal Oak Wednesday afternoon. They were disappointed, however, when no suckers were passed out.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dempsey and family of Middlebelt Road returned home Sunday after spending a few days at the cottage of George's parents in the Upper Peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leflar of Eldred Street returned this week from Statten Island after visiting their daughter, Dolores Gross, and family. Mrs. Leflar flew to New York six weeks ago to be with Dolores when the new baby arrived. Mr. Leflar drove there last week to see the new granddaughter. Mrs. Leflar returned home with him.

FELT HATS

A felt hat can be blocked into a new shape. Because commercial hat blocks are hard to buy, try using a sauceman, mixing bowl or flower pot. If it does not meet the correct headsize, pad it with strips of cotton cloth. Be sure padding is smooth and firm. See Michigan State University clothing specialists.

NEW LAWS TO HELP AGED, CHILDREN IN MICHIGAN

Major achievements in the field of social legislation were made by the state legislature in the 1955 session now officially ended. Of prime importance in the view of legislative leaders was a new foster care program for Michigan children, the creation of a bipartisan Fair Employment Practices Commission to prevent discrimination in employment, and a $2,000,000 appropriation for the purchase of Salk polio vaccine to be given free to all children in the 1 to 10 years of age "high risk" group and to pregnant women.

The state already has placed orders for the polio vaccine, with the program to be administered through the State Health Department and local health departments. The vaccine will be provided free for all Michigan children in an effort to bring the dread polio disease under control. Under the new foster care program, the state will pay half the cost of caring for children in foster homes, while the counties will pay half the cost of caring for children in state institutions. Legislative leaders pointed out that this should result in greater efforts to find foster homes for children who need proper care. With the state paying half the cost of foster home care, counties will be relieved of much of that financial burden which they formerly bore in full. The new program was hailed by experts in the field as a major step in combating juvenile delinquency.

The Fair Employment Practices Commission will consist of six members whose job will be to prevent discrimination against anyone seeking employment because of race, creed, color or national origin. The Commission is authorized to hold hearings on complaints and may go into the courts, if necessary, to obtain subpoenas for witnesses and records.

In other actions in the social field, the legislature created an advisory committee on problems of the aging and authorized Michigan employment security commission to establish branches to help people over 65 find jobs. Adopted children were given full rights as family heirs and the former wait for marriage license was cut to three days in other legislative actions.

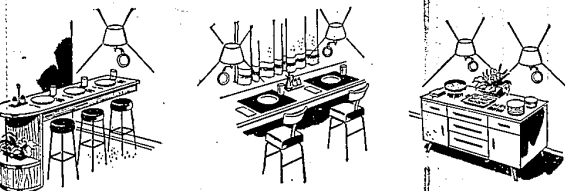

Older Persons Good Workers, Survey Reveals

People who stay on the job in their sixties and seventies can be good workers and usually are, according to authorities who should know — their supervisors.

In a University of Illinois survey, supervisors in 20 companies rated 1,025 older workers with these results. In over-all performance, 16% were excellent, 32% very good, 36% good. Seventy per cent were absent less often than their younger colleagues, and 32% had about the same number of absences. Fifty percent were rated more dependable.

In work quality, 57% did about the same and 35% were better. More than 75% turned out as much work or more work than younger employees. And 60% got along with others as well as young people did, while 33% got along better.

Retire Small Wall Lamps to Decorative Lighting Jobs, Replace Them with Larger Lamps For Better Vision

Have you ever thought of retiring some of your lamps that give you enough light for seeing, to less strenuous jobs of a casual or decorative nature?

Although this applies to floor and table lamps, it's a particularly good suggestion for small, inefficient wall lamps.

Lighting equipment design has kept pace with modern standards of living to bring more efficient and practical lighting results. Today's lamps are not only more efficient but are more generous in size than those of a few years ago. Wall lamps are often the only way to give comfortable lighting to each reading spot in small rooms.

If you are using wall lamps for reading, be sure to choose one you know will do a good lighting job. Tested light conditioning receptacles reveal just the kind of lamp to choose and where to place it for best seeing results.

Use a wall lamp with a 13-inch shade. This means that the bottom diameter should be 13 inches and the top diameter 8 1/2 inches. The shade should be at least 8 inches deep for best lighting. Under the shade you'll want an 8-inch diffusing bowl with a 100/300-watt bulb. If you prefer styles without bowls, use a 50/100-watt bulb in

DEER HUNTING LAWS FOR COMING SEASON EXPECTED TO BE ABOUT THE SAME AS 1951

Michigan this fall is headed back to about the same deer hunting regulations as were used in 1951.

Conservation Department recommendations call for a regular season on legal bucks and an October 1 - November 5 bow and arrow season.

The bow and arrow season, as recommended, permits archers to take one "any" deer during the season. The regulations would be in effect everywhere except in Stenhouse, Emmet, Cheboygan, Bay and Huron Counties where the mainland of Chippewa County where only a legal buck could be taken.

These regulations are nearly the same as 1951's. Last year, any deer could be taken with bow and arrow in Bay and Huron Counties.

Also, recommendations call for an October 1 - December 15 bow and arrow season for taking any deer in Allegan County and for a special any-deer, firearm season in part of the county, December 1 - 11. These, too, are similar to 1951 regulations, except the special firearm season is somewhat liberalized in area and dates.

ICE CREAM DATAS BACK AS FAR AS 14TH CENTURY

Dolly Madison, whose reputation as a hostess with a flair for the unusual, has frequently been credited with serving the first ice cream. An account of the second inauguration of President Madison contains the following: "Mrs. Madison always entertains beautifully. . . . When finally the brilliant assemblage, America's best, entered the dining room, they beheld in the center, high on a silver platter, a large shining dome of pink ice cream."

Undoubtedly, this lovely First Lady popularized the frozen dainty but accounts of man's conception of a cooling sweet goes back to the returning from the Orient, told tales of slant-eyed men, consuming dishes of ice, brought by camelback from the mountains, into which had been beaten sweetening, exotic fruits and flavorings.

The recipe brought back by this famous globe-trotter was quickly adopted by the Italians and, through the Medicis spread to France where the chefs, trying to improve on the water ices, added milk and cream. From there the formula reputedly traveled to England as a court secret.

The first newspaper advertisement for ice cream in this country appeared May 19, 1777, in the New York Gazette. But, although George Washington's account book, under date of May 17, 1784, describes a "cream machine for making ice," it was not until the year 1848 that a patent was issued for an ice cream freezer.

Helping you with the laundry . . .

It takes an experienced, capable team at your gas company to provide you and your community with the better living benefits of dependable gas service. Typists, clerks, meter readers, engineers, to name a few — make up the team that helps you with your laundry and all the other household jobs that only gas can do so well.

Working together in the best tradition of American initiative and enterprise, your gas company team brings you the best possible gas service at the lowest cost — and still earns a reasonable return on the investment required to furnish that service 24 hours a day, the year round.

That's the service pledge of your privately-owned, tax-paying gas company, and its employees team to you and the community it serves.
