PERHAPS YOU'VE HEARD that the Bell System has started installation of a new telephone cable under the Atlantic to the British Isles. The amplifiers (which keep voices strong and clear) are being built right into the cable and must last for years without repairs. It's vital to keep lint and dust out of the amplifiers so they are built in pressurized workrooms where employees wear special orlon work clothes, get their shoes vacuum-cleaned before going to work, and wear no cosmetics. They also get special fiber-free tissues if they get a cold in the head!

NOW THE BUSINESSMAN can hire an efficient, attractive secretary that his wife can't possibly be jealous of. It's an electronic telephone answering device called "Amanda." Here's what it does: Answers your telephone, gives the caller your recorded message, asks him to leave a message, then records what he has to say. You play back the calls when you return. Amanda is a "hot" item, but if you want one, we'll get it for you as soon as possible. Call us for full information.

Week" as follows: "To bring about better understanding of, and appreciation for, the American way of life." This is a great objective. It is inspiring to see the highly respected Kiwanis International take the initiative in helping bring about this better understanding, and to note the splendid response from so many other great organizations.

"Farm - City Week" the Kiwanis International officials told me, "is designed to create an impact in every home, rural and urban. Through this impact, should come better understanding between farm and city; realization of the fact that neither is self-sufficient; that interdependence between them is essential. It should make abundantly clear the fact that this interdependence is a primary source of wealth and national strength."

The most important result of such mutual understanding and respect among farm and city people, at least at the moment, is that it defests one of the chief strategies of the Communist Fifth Column in America. The Reds and their helpers are trying to divide the people of America, pit country against group. Their tactics are to create confusion, and promote jealousies and hatred between groups. Thus the Kiwanis sponsored "Farm - City Week" is strengthening America, striking a blow against the Red tyranny.

patients could be congregated in the other hospitals, and one could be converted to a mental hospital.

The battle raged for months. Finally, a call was sent out for a survey by state agencies of the number of empty tuberculosis hospital beds. Figures were different.

At one point, the tuberculosis people reduced the capacity of their state hospitals, claiming that care could not be adequately given if the capacities remained at the higher figure.

Senator Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield) rammed through his proposal for an outside agency to make the survey.

There was opposition from both Republicans and Democrats to spending $20,000 for the investigation when the Citizens Research Council of Michigan, privately endowed, offered to do it free.

"We could do it, but some people think we are taking sides," said Loren B. Miller, director of the council. Legislators insisted on a "good" survey and an "accurate" count of beds by the Chicago organization and its representative here, John D. Corcoran.

"We don't make any other kind of survey," he snapped.

A MICHIGAN WOMAN, Winifred Gentry, is author of "One More River to Cross," her first book, which came off presses this week. She did not start out to write a story - merely an account of her colorful and adventuresome experiences with her husband, Howard L. (Dax) Gentry, for family consumption. But the record of his climb from an oil and pipeline worker to their present prosperity made such fine reading, she decided to publish it.

Today the Gentrys live in a spacious Jackson home, own a sizable oil and pipeline business. "One More River to Cross" is the intimate, spirited and rollicking story of their ups and downs, spiced with local color for those who find Michigan stories fascinating.
