

Livonians In National Auto Finals

A trip to historic Boston and a chance to win college scholarships is on the schedule next week for two automobile mechanics students from Observerland and their instructor.

They will travel to the national finals of the Plymouth Trouble Shooting contest, which will be held on Boston Common on June 26. The students will be among 113 teams representing all 50 states who will win the all-expense trips in a regional elimination contest this spring.

Participating from this area at Boston are Robert E. Froberg, 18, of 1825 Balbridge, Livonia, and Steven J. Brown, 18, of 14119 Merri-man, students at Bentley High School, Livonia, and their instructor Emil Nelson, of 1098 Arcola, Garden City.

Michigan also will be represented by Edmund Krol, 19, of Mt. Clemens, and William Ikeda, 24, of Warren, students of Macomb County Community College, and their instructor Gene Pezzotti of Centerline.

Their goal will be a national championship and a share in more than $90,000 worth of college scholarships and other prizes for the contestants and trophies, tools, and automobile components which will be used as training aids by their schools.

A total of $37,000 in scholarships tops the prize list. The first place team in each of two classes, high school and post-high school, wins $5,000 in scholarships.

Each team placing in the national finals wins for its school a new Plymouth engine and transmission, complete with accessories, for instructional use in the school's auto mechanics shop, and a large trophy for its school. Each participating team receives a complete set of tools for its school.

After being properly weighed, examination scores are combined with the finishing times in the mechanical competition to determine the overall winners of the contest.

The finalists are America's most talented auto mechanics students.

Advice To Be Free At WSU For HS Grads

Recent high school graduates can receive free employment counseling or college admission counseling at Wayne State University's College of Education counseling center.

The center, supervised by Dr. Bob Wurtz, will add a special emphasis to its regular counseling program from June 25 to July 30 to assist June graduates in deciding what kinds of jobs to look for, how to go about finding that job, or how to get into the junior college, college, or training program of their choice.

The counseling center staff consists of 12 graduate students in guidance and counseling. The Center is open Monday-Thursday, from 12:30-4:30 p.m.

Appointments for counseling may be made by calling the center on the WSU campus.
