before the Township Board regarding possible restrictions on building activity, where inadequate water and sewage facilities exist, points up the growing importance of this perplexing problem.

There is no question but what some type of restrictions are necessary to protect the health and safety of present jas well as future property owners. The major problem is how it can be done most effectively within the framework of the laws of the State of Michigan. Part of the question has been answered through the adoption by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors of jan amendment to the existing Sanitary Code, setting up controls on the installation of septic tanks and disposal systems. Such an jamendment is legally sound under the powers and authority granted to the County.

Thus the remaining question boils down to one of application. Beginning in September of this year, the County will have the responsibility of enforing these regulations. The Township will have an important part in the carrying out of this new program. The degree of cooperation and coordination at the local level will have much to do with the effectiveness of the amendment. We are confident that this new procedure can provide the protection so badly needed in our growing community.

In view of the action by the County, it is our opinion that every effort should be concentrated on making this program work. Adoption of parallelules and regulations on the Township level would only confuse the issue and lessen the effectiveness of the County program. We have a sound legal foundation to build on and we have the tools to do the job. The kind of protective structure we put together will depend to a large extent on our vigilence and cooper-

As A Matter Of Policy . . .

The Enterprise normally refrains from endorsing candidates for political office. This policy is based ton the theory that once the voters are given the facts they are fully capable of making a sound and just decision.

However, there are occasions when The Enterprise feels sufficiently keen about a certain candidate to urge his nomination and election. Such an occasion presents itself in the coming Primary Election on August 7. In our opinion Scott W. Cole, candidate for State Representative on the Republican ticket, warrants the support of the voters of Farmington Community.

This endorsement is far from just an off-hand opinion. We have spent considerable time in reviewing his qualifications and studying his proposed program. Cole, a resident of Novi Township, is in, a position to give the growing Farmington area the kind of representation it needs. He is not only aware of the problems facing the community, but has a sincere desire to work with the people in solving them. Cole is young and aggressive, with an outstanding record of service in World War II and Korea. He is well aware of the operation and function of the State Legislature, having worked as an employee of the House of Representatives for two years. His training and experience as an educator and business, man gives him a broad understanding of the social and economic problems that lie before us.

However, most immunity.

A LAW TO "SAVE YOUR LIFE" will be advocated by Secretary of State James M. Hare to state legislators when they reconvene on July 17. Designed to remove "bad drivers" from Michigan highways, this legislation will deny ficense renewals to proven poor driving risks. During the last 112 months 25,000 licenses were denied drivers applying for renewals advocting to the Secretary of State. About 15,000 rejections were based on bad driving records.

records?

"In effect," Hare states, "Judge Salmon's decision requires that we conduct hearings in each case."

So 15,000 hearings must be held.
"This places an exceedingly heavy load upon examiners," comments Hare. "It will be impossible for us to screen out the worst drivers."

There are an estimated 3,000,000 good drivers in Michigan. According to Haret, this change in the law is asked to protect these drivers. Nothing in the present statute will be altered. The right of appeal to hearings before local boards and the courls will remain protected.

boards and the courts will remain protected.
"It should be clearly understood that we do not have the slightest desire to harrass the great majority, who are good drivers," Hare states. "We want to remove from the road that litus minority which is the great cause of our highway accidents."

City Books

A recommendation that an improved system of bookkeeping be installed by the City of Farmington was made by an auditing firm to the City Commission Monday night. The auditors rejorted that dithough city officials have maintained the books as lyell as possible, the current system is inadequate for a municipality the size of Farmington. They added that statistical work was such that the city's books Tare in a deplorable condition," and "completely out of balance." The auditors recommended segregation of departments.

School Building
At a meeting of the School Board Tuesday night. Superintendent O. E. Dunckel was directed to survey immediately the possibility of Securing two additional rooms to ease the crowded conditions in the Farmington schools until a temporary building can be putchased or constructed. The temporary building is to be set up as soon as possible adjacent to the gymnasium building. It will consist of two rooms, utilizing the present heading facilities in the gymnasium. In addition to the temporary building, Dunckel recommended that a temporary partition be installed in the high school cafeteria, making another classroom available. It was indicated that the proposed classroom expansion program would care for the immediate needs of the district.

Fire Hall Site

The Farmington Township Board has selected Bell's Garage on Northwestern Highway as the site for one of two new fire stations to be located in the Township, Supervisor Ernest Blanchard announced this week. Approval was granted to the site providing that a volunteer fire department can be recruited from residents of the size. The exact area to be covered by the station has not yet been fetermined.

determined.

Township Zoning
The second public meeting on the proposed Township Zoning Ordinance took a livelier turn Tuesday night when applause broke out for immediate passage of the code. Opposition to portions of the code met with loud boos. The third and last public meeting on the proposed zoning ordinance will be held August 21.
