State Enters Forest Fire Season With Low Record

Michigan heads into the most critical stage of its forest fire season with a "very favorable record" so far this year, according to M. M. Bergman, head of the Conservation Department's forest fire control section.

To date, 433 fires have damaged 2287 acres of state and private forests and grasslands. Last year at this time, more than 5,000 acres had been damaged by fire.

A softball game will be staged in the afternoon between two local unions. Residents of the county are invited to join in the Labor Day contest scheduled for 7 p.m.
