Record Number Of Patients Attend Hospital Fair

More than 1,200 patients at the Northville State Hospital attended the Fourth Annual Patient Fair on August 28, which was sponsored by 16 organizations that volunteer regularly at the hospital.

Each patient attending the Fair received a book of tickets entitling him or her to twenty tries at 16 games of skill and chance. Over 6,000 prizes were won and 2,400 hamburgers were consumed, along with 3,600 glasses of orange drink, donated by the Northville Labor Union, and some two hundred home-made cakes.

An Occupational Therapy exhibit featuring patient-made articles was arranged by Miss Janet Pateson, director of the hospital's Occupational Therapy Department. Cash prizes were awarded directly to nine patients whose handwork was judged by Mrs. Kay Morehead of Berkley, chairman of the hospital Volunteer Service Council, and Walter Irving of Detroit, a hospital volunteer.

Local women working at the event included: Mrs. Vershaye, 19750 Clement, who served as a Quick Sketch Artist; Mary Wheaton, 33495 Alta Loma, a hospital volunteer; Isabel Partridge, 54433 Eight Mile Road, of the Northville State Hospital Gray Lady Service; Mrs. Sylvia Plutz, 35050 Eight Mile, of the Farmington; Eight Mile Extension Group; Mrs. Margaret Ward of 21402 Jacksonville, of the Farmington Business and Professional Women's Club.

GAME FOR GAME

Hunters will do well to carry a small but well-stocked first aid kit on their treks into the wilderness this fall. Aside from the obvious hazard involved, there are the much more frequent cuts, bruises and falls that can ruin the trip and even cause serious harm. What to take? Bandages, iodine, aspirin and eye drops should do the job.

It's no "yolk" -- eggs now come in plastic shells. At least one concern is marketing of eggs repackaged in plastic containers. All you do is peel back the plastic cover of a section and slide the egg into the frying pan.

Every duty which we omit, obscures some truth which we should have known.

If you find life is empty, try putting something into it.
