

To insure your family against possible food poisoning, stuff your turkey just before popping it into the oven. If you must stuff your turkey earlier, be sure that the dressing and the turkey both are ice-cold, caution M.S.U. foods processors.

Recently a lady passenger presented a railroad ticket purchased by her father in 1872 and the conductor honored it without hesitation. The fare today for the 90-mile trip is about the same as it was 84 years ago.

Approximately 68 percent of the total expenses of the University of Michigan are for salaries, wages, and related employee benefit plans.

Around The Circle In Staman Acres

MRS. WILLIAM SMITH GR. 4-8292

The Christmas party held by the Staman Stitches last Wednesday evening was a success based on the turn-out of members and the enjoyment expressed on the faces of those ladies present.

Edleen Ranzenberg opened her home for the event and the lower level recreation area was beautifully decorated under the talented hands of a decorating committee, especially Charlotte Waskowski. Millie Unks served on the committee, too, and it was her husband Ray who did the two centerpieces on the buffet table and head table.

The ladies wore red rose corsages, made by the committee, and obtained through the courtesy of Jim Haines. Jean Haines was also a party committee member. Zora Cross gave direction and aid, and Margaret Sivy served as general chairman. It was this latter girl who donated and roasted the turkey for the buffet, much to the dismay of hungry children who sniffled the aroma in the Sivy house. Mandy Hajduk baked the fruitcakes, and June Taylor mastered the great variety of Christmas cookies. June and Charlotte did the colorful appetizer dishes as prizes. Margaret Wheeler held the necessary meeting at which the Christmas tree programs were cut and decided, after Larry Lutzen executed the pattern.

The evening's entertainment was highlighted by the story-teller, Miss Wallace, who is dedicated with her group to the continuance of story-telling as a form of American culture. The exchange of Christmas gifts was followed by the excitement of a game, and thence to the buffet table, laden with turkey, ham, rolls, salad, relishes, cake, and cookies.

The coffee maker, purchased as a result of a vote at the last Staman Acres Civic Association meeting, is now available to members on a loan-out basis. Recreation committee chairman, Mrs. Jack Cross, has charge of it. Any one wishing to use it may call Zora at Gr. 4-6848.

It was a night out for Walter Davis as his wife Mary, of Belmont Drive, entertained at a stork shower last Thursday evening. The party was in honor of Mrs. Mary Flint and the church group of her affiliation turned out 24 strong to do honor to her. Mary served a tapioca dessert with Christmas cookies and candies, coffee and tea.

Barb and Derald Katterman of Staman Circle Drive stepped out in high style December 12, causing Barb to miss the "Stitcher's" party. The popular couple attended the dinner-dance sponsored by the Engineering Society of Detroit at the Radham Building, Detroit.

The roast beef plus trimmings was followed by a program consisting of dancers, splendid in Christmas costume, and the Madrigal singers. These singers sang Christmas carols dating back to the Early English days. Dancing in the ballroom and refreshments of punch and Christmas cookies ended the evening.

Belmont Drive boasted another party in the holiday mood. Gladys and Bill Hogan welcomed five couples to their home last Sunday evening. Coestivals were served at five to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bonn, Mr. and Mrs. B. DeMay, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Potts and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redwine.

The group meets regularly for cards, be it pinocle, canasta, or any current rage. This particular evening was outstanding, however, for Gladys' sumptuous buffet dinner: baked glazed ham, barbecued spareribs, stirrup, scalloped potatoes, baked beans, Christmas salad, hot rolls, cakes, cookies, and coffee.

Ray and Bea Sisty entertained recently in honor of their seventh wedding anniversary. Fran and Paul Christensen, Joanne and Bill Smith, and Charlotte and Vic Waskowski joined the Sistys of Staman Circle at the Ell's Club in Pontiac for an evening of refreshments and dancing. The couple was singled out by the orchestra.

Youth To Have Party Dec. 23

"It is better to give than to receive" is the theme of the Christmas program for the children of the Universalist Church to be held December 23 during the regular Church School hour.

Each child will bring a pair of mittens to be sent to Hungarian children through the Service Committee of the Universalist Church of America.

Last Sunday the children trimmed their tree with decorations they had been making. There will be a Christmas program prepared by the older children and a story by Mrs. Tom Westerlin.

At a given time during the church service the children will assemble and place the mittens in a basket. Afterward, there will be sandwiches and cookies for adults and children ending with a Christmas stocking for every child.

John Clappison says "Merry Christmas."

JCs To Judge Outside Lighting

Again this year the Farmington Junior Chamber of Commerce will be conducting its outdoor Christmas lighting contest open to all residents of the Farmington area. Judging of the most beautifully lighted homes will be made this Sunday evening by a special committee between the hours of 7 to 9 p.m.

Chairman of the project, Jim Davis, announced that as many homes as possible will be looked at. He asked that anyone wishing to have their outdoor home lighting looked at or that a neighbor whose home is well decorated, call GR. 4-8492.
