Bible Comment:
Discipline in Drink
Only One Aspect
Of Temperate Life

NO one has ever suffered from total abstinence from intoxicating liquors, but thousands of millions, in fact, have suffered from intemperance.

The motive of moral discipline finds its exemplification in the lives of individuals who have been conspicuous for the purity of their lives and their devotion to the highest ideal.

John the Baptist is a good example of this as are the Rechabites and others who imposed upon themselves a rule of abstinence.
