Representing the Farmington Public Schools at the annual national convention of the Department of Elementary School Principals, Niles J. Cincinatti, Ohio, March 24-27, was principal Kenneth C. Leuchman.

Over 4,000 principals of schools throughout the nation participated in the convention.

Convention attractions included clinics sessions covering 19 major areas of elementary education, a national exhibit, panel discussions with principals with inspiration and help from specialists, through panel discussions and audience participation.

A wide cross-section exhibit of the work of elementary pupils as well as displays of commercial and supplies of the elementary school principals were shown.

While at the convention principals had an opportunity to tour Cincinnati's centers of business.

Upon retirement last October, Mr. Wesley D. McLean, father of Mrs. Don Chamberlin of Dohany Drive and Wesley J. McLean, of Powers Road, returned to his homeland in Ireland. However, this past week he decided it would be nice to surprise his family and
