Looking Ahead By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON (Continued from Page 2C)

Careful Study Major Mayer and his corps of psychiatrists in Japan interviewed hundreds of prisoners as they were released. "Case Histories" obtained on 1,000 cases studied. Every phase of the three years Communist imprisonment was clearly illuminated, details of events were reconstructed and samples of all written "educational" materials used by the young Chinese Communist instructors — educated in American Universities — were obtained.

"What we found in use on the prisoners," said Major Mayer, "was a system of indoctrination, education really, which was of the very highest order of excellence from the standpoint of the method used and the standpoint of the stewardship shown in the carrying out of this education. It was very much like... what God said to Moses: they taught them as they woke up, and they taught them as they went to bed, and they taught them on the way every day, seven days a week. And with a great deal of evident sincerity."
