(Continued from Page 2C) vately operated applied industry. If we socialize power, we will wrap the package up and say, 'Let's go socialistic all the way'.

Senator Mundt pointed out that electricity is a fuel. If it becomes government owned, then all the other fuels — coal, atomic energy, gas, and the rest — will necessarily become government owned.

People Will Decide Senator Mundt said the people by their votes and participation in government, would make the key decisions on government ownership of the electric power industry within the next few years.

Two weeks after Senator Mundt made those warning remarks, he wrote in the newspapers that his forces working for government ownership are back again in Congress trying to rescind the Interior Department's authorization for a privately owned hydro-electric project at Hells Canyon on Idaho's Snake River.

"Tight" money freed the government as well as businesses and individuals. According to U. S. News, and World Report, a new Treasury note pays 3.58 per cent interest—the highest rate since 1933.

Michigan Mirror (Continued from Page 2C) back in Lansing, June 27, for final adjournment and they already have some votes cut out for them. Gov. Williams started a series of veto messages rolling back to legislative halls before stragglers were out of town last month. Two of the bills vetoed would create new circuit judgeships in Saginaw and Oakland counties. Williams said he vetoed them because they required the judges to be elected in November, 1959, and to take office Jan. 1, 1959. The governor, who would otherwise appoint them, said the delay was "unnecessary" and that if Republican bills passed on election in 1958, "the situation isn't so desperate as it seems." Another veto was slapped on a bill expanding the state mental health commission to six and requiring that three be Republicans and three Democrats. Williams said it would put mental health in Michigan on a political basis. Then he said the 33 division would produce a statement. Another factor, he said, is that some present members would have to be replaced. Republicans fear overriding the vetoes will be impossible. A group of Boston businessmen staged a realistic re-enactment of the Boston Tea Party, in protest against high taxes and government spending. The chests labeled "waste," "big budget" and so on were thrown into the harbor. John Clappison sells insurance. Phone GR. 4-3511
