Patricia Ann Cox Wed
At Afternoon Ceremony

With the late afternoon sun streaming thru the west windows of Grace Lutheran Church, Patricia Ann Cox and Zane Raymond Miller, pledged their nuptial vows, Sunday, September 14, before an altar banked with white gladioli and chrysanthemums. It was a double ring ceremony with Reverend Victor F. Holbooth, officiating.

Holding to the tradition of "something borrowed and something blue," the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Steele Cox, Jr. of 33223 Shawnee, wore the bridal gown in which her aunt, Mrs. Robert Johr had spoken her vows. It was fashioned of chintilly lace over candlelight sleeves and a tiny collar trimming the high neckline. Her finger tip veil was attached to a small lace brim and she carried a bouquet of flowers surrounding a white orchid on a prayer book.

Donna Cox, assisted her sister, as maid of honor, and Gayla Miller, sister of the groom, and Marilyn Goers, both of Farmington, acted as bridesmaids. They were dressed alike in beige brocade taffeta, with trimmings of white beads of toast velvet. All carried gold rings with yellow mums.

Larry Miller acted as best man for his brother. Groomsman were Dan Ahrens of Dearborn and George Sage of Gables, Michigan, with Milton Jacob of Northville and Charles Lamb of Grosse Pointe acting the groomsman.

Wearing a dress fashioned after the others in the bridal party, Linda Cox, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, with her brother, James as junior groomsman.

The bride's mother, wore a rose taffeta dress with black accessories. The groom's mother's dress was silver blue tulle, and she wore navy accessories. Flowers for both mothers were rubrum lilies.

In the Church parlors, where Susan Cox presided at the guest register, a reception followed for 200 guests. Judy and Beverly Cragg of Berkley and Mary Dale Brown of Skaneateles, New York, poured at the tea table. Later, a buffet supper for 100 was served at the Cox home, for the many out of town visitors. They came from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Sault Ste. Marie, New York, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Ann Arbor, Gables, Paw Paw, Port Huron and Bay City, Michigan.

For their wedding trip to northern Michigan, Patricia wore a rose taffeta knitted dress, with brown accessories. The new Mrs. Miller is a 1954 graduate of Farmington High School and is now a senior at Michigan State University where she is majoring in elementary education. Mr. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Miller of Gables, Michigan, is also a senior at Michigan State and is majoring in engineering.

Moseman Speaks
At Players Meet

Edward A. Moseman spoke at the regular monthly meeting of the Farmington Players held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hannan last Saturday night.

He reviewed the ancient religious dances, the classical Greek plays, and medieval theater up to the time of the Elizabethan period.

Moseman has become well known as a lecturer and authority on the theater. In addition to the talk, he read portions of Greek plays and performed, on request, a famous Shakespearean soliloquy.

Moseman also gave examples on how the theater of the past is still very much a part of the theater of the present. His extensive knowledge of his subject plus an amiable manner of presentation brought to his audience a broader comprehension of the significance of the theater in history and in the culture of today.

After his lecture slides were shown of previous plays produced by the Farmington Players and discussion conducted on the forthcoming major production to be presented by the Players.

Refreshments were served by Marion Hamilton and her committee.

On Saturday, September 28, beginning at 9:00 a.m. the membership of the Farmington Players is scheduled to work party to finish a number of remodeling projects on The Players Barn. Non-members who may wish to participate should call Hope Nahstoll, chairman, at GR. 4-1992.
