Saturday is a busy day for the grim reaper, say authorities. Traffic deaths on Saturday account for about one-fourth of the weekly total. Reasons: Week-end trips, hurried shopping and other chores, more parties, more drinking.

No matter what the weather, for hitchhikers it's always thumber-time.

Questions Proposed Industrial Development

To the Editor:

The Township Supervisor's report on industrial zoning in the September 12, issue of the Enterprise was very interesting, but I could not help feeling a degree of sympathy with the "little citizens" of Columbus, Ohio, and other localities who did not want increased industrial zoning in their community.

It is true we are all generally willing to have industry located in someone else's back yard, but how many of us want to live near it? Many of us moved to Farmington to get away from the smoke, soot, traffic and noise of industrial Detroit. We like Farmington Township because it is peaceful and quiet. Our children can run and play and go to school without excessive danger from heavy trucks and other traffic, and we can enjoy suburban living with other families of similar interests and backgrounds. Will Farmington still be a desirable community in which to live if large areas of the township are rezoned industrial?

Is the only solution to high taxes to bring industry to Farmington Township? I wonder? Belief in the situation (which is the reason advanced for bringing more industry to Farmington) may come about of its own accord. It was the building boom and consequent strain on existing school facilities that has caused almost all of our increased taxation. Residential building permits issued this year, however, are way down from the number in previous years, and the home building boom appears to be past its peak. Moreover, the recent Township ordinance requiring larger lot sizes in new subdivisions should also help to reduce the number of new homes and children in newly developed areas.

I submit that we can absorb a gradual increase in population without undue tax hardship. Industry is not an unmitigated blessing and brings with it increased costs in road repair and upkeep, police and fire protection and devaluation of homes in areas surrounding industrial zones. A plant like the Star Cutter Company on Grand River Avenue is certainly not objectionable.

Tickets On Sale For Ice Follies, Oct. 29 To Nov. 11

Shipstead and Johnson's Ice Follies 1958 will return to Olympia Stadium Tuesday, October 29, to begin a limited engagement that will include 15 performances in 11 days.

The Ice Follies will conclude its stand Sunday, November 10. Performances will be offered each evening except Monday, November 4, and Tuesday, November 5. Matinees will be presented each Saturday and Sunday. The final show on Sundays will be at 6 p.m.

This is the star-laden ice extravaganza that visited the Olympia Stadium last Fall for the first time in two decades.

The promoters are confident that the Ice Follies of 1958 is even better in all respects. Roy and Edie Shipstead and Oscar Johnson, who pioneered in this form of entertainment 22 years ago, have poured more than $500,000 into costumes and production costs for the extravaganza, officials said.

The Ice Follies will offer 20 excellent numbers, from overwhelming production efforts to stunning solo performances. Yet the show is so fast-paced that it will consume only 15 minutes from start to finish.

Frances Dorsey, Florence Rze, Anna McLaughlin, Walter Dwyer, and N. Pick and Janet Champion, who contributed so handsomely to the success of the Ice Follies last year, will be back with new and even more breath-taking acts.

Tickets are now on sale at the Olympia box office and at the downtown Grinnell's store on Woodward Avenue. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted for half price to the Saturday matinee.

West Bloomfield Players Rehearse For Next Play

A scientist, a cost accountant, a housewife and a former magician will combine in their first play for the Township Players of West Bloomfield on October 17, 18 and 19. The production is "Wake Up, Darling," a comedy recently on Broadway.

Howard Dehaven of Pontiac is the scientist and is employed on the Chrysler Corporation's turbine engine project. For the play he will cast aside the reserve and dignity usually associated with his profession to portray a brash and irritatingly successful young playboy.

Mr. Dehaven's wife, Mrs. Mary Onken, West Bloomfield housewife and mother of three small children, is cast in the play as the object of the playboy's affections. The story becomes considerably enlivened by the entrance of the leading lady's husband, a successful man in his own right as a writer of advertising copy for perfume. Raymond Denika, a resident of Dearborn and a cost accountant by profession, will take the part of the sporty husband.

At the point where the plot becomes so hilariously complicated as to defy resolution, the playwright's father, a man of means even beyond the surmise of the Internal Revenue, arrives to straighten everybody out. This role will be played by Joseph Gullivan, who, at one time in his career, entertained various groups around this area as a magician.

Old hands of the Township Play-cast are Mrs. Phyllis Parlin and Mrs. Irene Klapp, both in last year's production of "Light Up the Sky" and Mrs. Dorothy McArthur and Mrs. Jeanne Radcliffe, seen in "High Ground" last March. On stage in supporting roles for their first time will be Mrs. Blanche Apley, Russell Knock and Jack Radcliffe.

"Wake Up, Darling" will be presented at the auditorium of the West Bloomfield High School in Orchard Lake. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Lee Parker, LI. 3-1149 or at the box office the nights of the play.

BOYS' CLUBS

The Boys' Clubs of Detroit, have expanded from one club house to four, plus a summer camp, since establishment of the Torch Drive in 1949 to finance health and community services. The Torch Drive provides 64 per cent of the operating funds for providing recreation for 5,000 club members.

No one would have crossed the ocean if he could have gotten off the ship in the storm.

TORCH DRIVE NAME

The name "Torch Drive," under which well over $100,000,000 has been raised for local, state, and national health and community services in the past eight years, was selected in a contest held in July, 1949. About 100,000 volunteers submitted funds under the Torch banner during the Ninth Annual "give once for all" fund-raising campaign, October 15 through November 7.

DENISON, TEXAS, PRESS: "Like the good and faithful dog, the newspaper comes to the master of the house and remains until it has brought its message... You can wrap up the history of the family or the nation in your hometown newspaper. That's why it is the greatest entertainer of all time."
