Police To Add Patrols For Labor Day Traffic

With a high traffic volume expected in Michigan over the Labor Day weekend, the summer's last major holiday, the State Police will operate special patrols from noon Friday, September 4, to midnight Monday, September 7, in an effort to hold down accidents, Commissioner Joseph A. Childs reports.

During the 78-hour holiday in 1963, six multiple death accidents killed 18 persons, more than half the weekend's toll of 35 which was the highest for a Labor Day period since 1949, when 38 died.

Childs emphasized that chances for multiple death accidents are greatly increased during holidays because motorists trips are generally family affairs and there are many more cars on the roads.

"However, high holiday tolls are not inevitable," Childs said. "Michigan records show there were only 12 deaths for the Labor Day period in 1958 and 13 the year before. Drivers can assure themselves a safer holiday trip by driving

Gang Beats, Robs Motorist

James Perry, 32342 Merritt, Garden City, was robbed and beaten by a gang of five men who halted his car on Farmington Road near Joy, dragged him from the car and then assaulted him.

That was his report to Livonia Police after the robbery. Perry was driving south on Farmington when forced off the road by the car. Before he knew what was happening, he had been dragged out, thrown to the road and beaten.

He told investigating officers the thieves escaped with more than $400.

Six Cars Are Damaged In Parking Lot Crash

A two-car collision in the parking lot at the Ford Transmission plant, Plymouth at Levan, brought a chain reaction that finally involved four other parked cars and a passenger car to St. Mary Hospital for examination and treatment.

Livonia Police reports show Dan Corey, of Detroit, was driving southbound through the lot and didn't see a vehicle, driven by Louis Moore, of Detroit, until the cars collided at an intersection.

Corey's car bounced off two others in the lot, wrecking one so badly that it considered completely demolished.

Then followed the chain reaction that found one of the parked cars ramming another which in turn jammed into the guard rail. The guard rail snapped and struck another parked car—making a total of six autos damaged in a single accident in a private parking lot.

Atty. General Tells When Laws Take Effect

(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of the Michigan Constitution which gives the attorney general the right to determine the effective date of laws passed by the legislature.)

By Attorney General Frank J. Kelley

When does a new law take effect? The answer to that question can have an important impact on many of your rights.

The effective date of a new law depends upon the terms of the particular law. When the new law does not mention an effective date, the law does not go into effect until 90 days after the end of the legislative session at which it was passed. The reason is that the Michigan Constitution provides for this 90-day period in such instances.

In some cases the new law specifies an effective date later than 90 days after the end of the legislative session. An example is the 1963 law concerning safety belts for certain motor vehicles. It provides in part:

"No private passenger vehicle manufactured after January 1, 1965 shall be offered for sale in this state unless the vehicle is equipped with safety belts for the driver and one other front seat passenger."

In other cases, the law may specify that it is to take immediate effect. Under the Constitution this requires a two-thirds vote of the members elected to and serving in each house of the legislature.

An illustration of a law given immediate effect by the legislature is the law approved this year, requiring that the motor vehicle operator's license of a minor shall be a color different from those issued to persons who have attained 18 years of age.

If you have a question concerning the effective date of a new law, you may determine the answer by contacting the Secretary of State or the office of the Attorney General.

Plymouth JC's Land Net Meet

Plymouth, which hosted the State Junior Chamber of Commerce bowling tournament last winter, grabbed another plum when it successfully bid for the 1965 state tennis tournament.

Thanks to a clever brochure and some excellent work during the summer board meeting in Lansing, the Jaycees were awarded the net meet which is expected to bring as many as 250 junior players from all sections of the state.

The Jaycees' brochure pointed out that Plymouth has 14 first class courts within a mile of the center of the city, ample space for housing facilities and banquet halls available for as many as 300.

The four-day tourney is tentatively scheduled for June 24, 25, 26 and 27 and will be played on courts at Plymouth High School, Riverside Park and in Cass Benton Park.

The Jaycees will furnish transportation to and from the courts outside the city. They will also furnish housing and meals for all contestants.

The tourney is divided into two divisions—No. 1, boys and girls 18 and under and No. 2, boys and girls 16 and under.

Jim Stevens, Plymouth High coach, is chairman of the tournament and will handle all details with Howard O'Ford serving as publicity chairman.

Stevens indicated he already has made arrangements for a pre-tourney clinic under the supervision of Bill Murphy, University of Michigan tennis coach. Mrs. Jean Hecle, coach of the famed Hamtramck High team and rated as one of the best instructors in the Midwest, will headline the championship banquet with a talk and films.

Even the fellow who lacks self-discipline can easily point out the proper course for other people to follow.
