

New Integrated Nursery Draws Mixed Reactions

Both positive and negative reactions were reported this week by backers of a racially integrated nursery school, following disclosure of plans for the Livonia community project.

Three officers of the Livonia Citizens for Better Human Relations said they had received several "obscene and threatening" calls, but that many residents had telephoned to offer praise for the project, since it was made public two weeks ago. The nursery unit, which will include about two dozen white and Negro youngsters, is being operated by Livonia Nursery, for 12 years.

Describing the background of the nursery, Mrs. Ruth Paluzzi, relations chairman of the Human Relations group, said:

"We had a few members of our group who felt they wanted their children to meet Negro youngsters. Rev. S. L. our ch airman, approached the Livonia

Chamber of Commerce, which said it was willing to undertake an integrat ed unit as a project, and this fact has been publicized in our newsletter to members."

"The Livonia Nursery, Inc., is state-licensed and it operated for a few months, but it had facilities at Rosedale Garde n Presbyterian Church for its schools."

"The program as it now stands," she said, "is that the nursery unit will meet Tues day and Thursday from 1 to 3 p.m."

Mrs. Paluzzi said about 17 ap plications for enrollment in the nursery have been received so far, from both Livonia and Ink ster. "Announcements of the nursery were circulated in the nearby community through

Smith, the pastor of the church there, and the Ann Arbor Im provement Association," Mrs.

Paluzzi said.

Dues for parents whose young sters are enrolled in the nursery are $10 a month, with a mother expected to participate in one class a month as a teacher's as sistant. Mrs. Paluzzi said.
