LADIES STEP FORWARD
For A "Sparkling You" During the Holiday Season
 The face reflects the best of the costume. For the evening blacks, gold is the key in the make-up. The face is covered with a veil of gold, the eyes and fingernails are dripping in gold tones, and the lipstick is a gilded rose tone.

MEN'S NIGHT AT HARVY'S was a huge success this year as the proprietor, Harvey Goldberg, went all out to accommodate the male shoppers. Pictured are browsers (L to R) Irving Rosenberg, John Rowe and James Livingston being assisted capably by salesgirls (L to R) Nancy, Andy and Beverly. There will be many "ohs" and "ahs" when the feminine set opens their gifts from Harvy's Suburban Casuals this Christmas. Even just the thought tickled John Rowe (above).

Wood Creek Village

 On Sunday next, the 20th, the junior Wood Creekers will be singing Christmas carols throughout the Village. They will be divided into four groups and the village into four districts. Between 4 and 5 o'clock the caroling will all meet at the Byes. Perhaps, too, you have noticed that the lot at the northwest corner of North Western Highway and Wellington is being leveled off. It will be flooded for a skating rink for the village children of all ages.
 KEN KREIDER is home for his Christmas vacation of exactly one month. He began on the 4th and he spent the first weekend skiing at Aspen, Colorado. He will get in all of that sport possible while here.
 Ida and Frank Jensen have a new grandson. Kai Eric Jensen arrived December 9th at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital, their second grandchild but first grandson. Congratulations!

Friday night was the annual Christmas dinner dance held this year at the Oakland Hills Country Club. Preceded by many cocktail parties, 125 families roared the club. The good fellowship, the dinner, the dancing, were enjoyed so much the orchestra was bribed to stay on a half hour beyond their usual closing time — we could have lasted all night if the orchestra had been willing to stay on. Much appreciation is due Jim O'Brien, our entertainment chairman, and his committee who planned this fine evening.
 DAVID AND HARRIET Gold, man brought with them to the dance their friends, the Mainsters. This delightful couple expect to move into the Tenney home at 29331 Wellington in January. Since my years in real estate have taught me "there is many a slip twixt the cup and the lip," I will defer a more formal welcome to them until the deal has actually been closed.
 This is a very busy time for the Pahls. Their son, John, graduates from the University of Michigan this Saturday. Then, a week later, on the 26th, he will be married to Sandra Price. Sandra's home is in Saginaw but they are to be married in Ann Arbor. John's sisters, Julie and Pam, will be bridesmaids. The couple will remain in Ann Arbor—John to graduate work having re-

Mayfair Announces Winners, Party Plans
 The Mayfair Duplicate held its largest game Friday night, Dec. 11. It was a Master Point event and a two-section Mitchell movement was held. Winners were: North-South, Mill-cent Hills, Virginia Melkonian, Henry Georgia and Don Bowen; and East-East, Alan Kormiller, Shally Kormiller, Ann Thomson and June Ely.
 Next Friday night the group is holding a Champagne party, a combination Christmas and birthday celebration. A large crowd is expected, and there will be adequate help for parking cars. Al and Marian Collins will direct the game with the professional assistance of Hilda Murphy of Birmingham.
 Reservations are coming in steadily for the New Year's Eve Bridge and supper party. This will be a Master Point event. For further information or reservations, please call Edna Johnson, MA. 6-8125.

 Regardless of where customers dial time service in Michigan, they hear the same feminine voice saying, "At the time the time will be..." followed by the hour, minute, and seconds at 10-second intervals.

Kendallarks To Entertain In Wood Creek

The Kendallarks, a Farmington women's choral group, under the direction of Mr. George Spill, will entertain at the home of Mrs. Bandfield of Wellington Drive in Wood Creek. They will perform their Christmas show for the elderly members of the Presbyterian home.
 The choral group will sing "It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas," "Ring Those Christmas Bells," "It Soon Will be Evening," "O Holy Night," with solo by Wyn Hartom; "Frosty the Snowman," written by Marlowe Belanger and Marian Spencer; "The Cherry Tree Carol," solo by Marlowe Belanger; and "I Wonder as I Wander," solo by Grace Coffman.
THE KENDALLARKS sang Monday, December 14, at St. Columba's parish and also at the Detroit Business and Professional Club, where they were well received.
 These active women have been much in demand for this season. They still would take engagements for this season for small acts or chorus if date is available. For the future engagements or information as to membership, please call Mrs. Fred Spencer GR. 6-0611, or Mrs. Roger Belanger GR. 4-7068.
