Stone Creek Chatter

PAT SZYMANSKI 476-8286
Welcome to Stone Creek making tracks for others to follow. One of the newest subdivisions in Farmington Township. Our most recent arrivals are Joe and Ethel Kaspik, a family of Brookplace Court. Mil and Connie George are in the process of moving into their home on Barfield Drive. They entertained their daughter Donna's friends at her 5th birthday party. The celebration was held at Connie's mother's home on Woodmont and included several of her friends as well as many guests. Connie is actually only one year old in birthday—she was born on February 29.

Another happy family is the Frank J. Szymanski clan. Pat, 6, won an award recently. (See story elsewhere in the Farmington Enterprise.)

We have many artistic people in our community. Among them are Bud and Carol Bourassa of Creekside Drive. Bud has paneled "one entire wall of their family room with bamboo; and together with an early American wall telephone and colonial furnishings, it certainly is the envy of their neighbors.

MIKE MIKESILL, who lives across the street from Bud, was the mainstay of the Stone Creek Farms attempt to get out of the mountains of snow piled up from last week's blizzard. In his Jeep, Mike traveled for hours back and forth from Barfield Drive to Ten Mile Groves-Walker Post 346 of the American Legion in Farmington will be celebrating its 46th birthday next week.

A special birthday dinner has been planned to mark the occasion and will be held on Thursday, March 18, starting at 7 p.m.

The public is invited and a special invitation is going out to all veterans to attend. For reservations call either H. Quinn, GR. 4-2995, or Norman Goers, GR. 4-6836.

Guest speaker will be James Casey, department membership chairman.
