Town

Town also reports good news - no illnesses, please - about club members and tells about new research developments that may concern them. The next issue will contain the report of a new device that involves a tiny microphone in the oral cavity to produce speech.

The esophageal speech is considered the best method, Town said. But some laryngectomies have more difficulty than others in mastering it.

There are more men than women who have the surgery, he said, but women seem to have an easier time speaking again.

"I guess it's because you can't shut them up," he suggested.

For George Town, attending the tuition-free school and working with other laryngectomies was "the greatest thing that ever happened to me - the best therapy in the world."

Which he considers a good reason for passing the word along.
