

BANG!! BANG!!
A woman, concerned over the effect of TV cowboy movies on her youngster writes:
"The other day I drove through a red light at a busy intersection and was handed my first traffic ticket. My three-year-old son watched the officer in growing excitement, and finally inquired, 'Mommy, why don't you shoot it out with him?'"

Bentley Alumni Invited To Donkey Cage Contest

An invitation has been extended to all alumni of Bentley High in Livonia to attend the Senior-Alumni Donkey Basketball Game slated tonight, Thursday, February 27. A junior-sophomore game will start at 7 p.m. followed by the donkey basketball game at 8:15.

Following the game, the Alumni Association is sponsoring a social hour for members. Refreshments will be served. New alumni association membership cards will also be available, officials said.

One of the hardest secrets for a man to keep is his opinion of himself.

3 Shop Classes To Be Combined

Beginning next year, the F.H.S. shop 1, 11 and 111 classes will be replaced by a general shop class and classes covering individual phases of shop work.

This new program is the result of extensive study and work, and this is the story behind that work. Mr. Clayton Timmons said, "This is not an overnight idea. The changes to be made in the industrial arts department next year have been in the planning stage for a good number of years."

Execution of these plans began with the bond issue last March when money for the new classroom additions was approved.

In January of this year, Mr. Theodore Bielecki, chairman of the industrial arts department, drew up plans for the shop area showing the location of equipment and the general arrangement of other shop facilities. These plans were submitted to an architect for the purpose of selecting cabinets, pipes, electrical outlets, and other fixtures.

Mr. Harold Humble, Mr. James Geiger, and Mr. Bielecki drew up the course plan for the department early this year.

The type of shop which F.H.S. will have next year is what is known as a unit shop. The unit shop is the most common type of shop in this area. Mr. Bielecki said, "The more extensive shop work provided by the unit shop arrangement is necessary in an industrial area such as Farmington because about 70 per cent of the boys will go into industry."

Mr. Bielecki went on to say that he believes that F.H.S. will have a "far better industrial arts program" next year due to the changes which will be made.

A majority of industrial arts students are in favor of the new program. Don Cramton, sophomore, cause you can choose whatever thing that "it is a good idea to study." Dick Fosmone, senior, says, "It's a wonderful idea. Students will have more opportunity for specialization."

Sheldon Beckwith, junior, thinks the new shop program is a good idea "because you have a chance to do more work in each field of shop."

Juniors Select Play, "Dino"

"Dino" is the final selection for the Junior Play, the reading committee announced February 19. It is to be presented April 18 and 19 in the Farmington Junior High Auditorium.

The three-act play was adapted from Reginald Rose's "Studio One" drama. Rose received the "Emmy" award for his television play "Twelve Angry Men" and is noted for "The Remarkable Incident at Carson Carners" also a TV play.

The drama is the story of Dino Falcato, a juvenile delinquent. At the age of 17, he has just finished a four-year sentence at Reform School and returns home to the James Street Settlement House.

He is again amidst inadequate parents and the "toughs" of the neighborhood, who idolize him as a criminal. Mr. Mandel, Dino's parole officer, realizes that something must be done to change Dino, or he will turn into a criminal. Mr. Mandel puts him in charge of a psychotherapist. Resentment and rejection arise, and Dino is on the verge of falling into his younger brother's gang, when Shirley, a friend of Dino's, stands up for him. Dino is finally launched on the path of rehabilitation.

The play is also being presented by the Waterford High Dramatics Club March 28 and 29. The movie "Dino," starring Sal Mineo, circulated throughout the area last fall. Tryouts for the play will be held next week.

Future Nurses To Hear Grace Hospital Speaker

The Future Nurses' Club will hear guest speaker Mrs. Ashburn, who is Social and Activities Director for the Grace Hospital School of Nursing, this afternoon, Thursday.

A student nurse from the school will also speak to the group. All members are urged to attend.

Receives Degree At WSU Recently

Receiving his bachelor of science degree from Wayne State University recently was Gerald Plum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Plum of 33115 Shilohwood Road.

A graduate of Farmington High, he was the recipient of the MacKenzie award. During his sophomore year at WSU, he was named outstanding man of the year.

Married to the former Marianne Funk, he is the father of little 18 month old "Randy". Plum plans to continue working towards his doctors degree.

Pensions May or May Not be Taxed

If you receive a pension the payments you receive may, under certain circumstances, not be taxed at all, they may be taxed in part, or they may be taxed in full.

Payments which are fully or partially taxed should be reported on Schedule E, on Page 3 of the Form 1040. You cannot use the short form 1040A, if only a part of the pension is taxable.

Certain payments received, such as disability pensions, are not taxable at all and do not have to be shown on the income tax returns. Examples of non-taxable payments are Workmen's Compensation payments, Accident and Health Insurance payments (if you paid all the premiums), Railroad Retirement Act Pensions, Veterans Benefits to veterans and their families, Social Security payments and Unemployment Compensation.

If you are not sure about any payments you receive, call your local Internal Revenue Service Office for advice.

Dorothy Thompson looks at education: "Most American parents do not want their children to be educated. They want them to be trained for a specific function. They despise 'useless' knowledge. So our high schools are forced to teach everything under the sun, typing, home economics, mechanics, parenthood, and many other things that young people once learned at home, in specialized schools, or as apprentices. But a real educational institution is not a job factory."

AUTO EXPENSE —

Do You Realize What a PILE of Money That Steady Trickle Becomes?

Most people don't keep real records of their auto expense. Maybe they're afraid to. But you've heard your friends remark often that their cars keep them broke.

The Automobile Club of Michigan estimates that it costs you 10¢ per mile to operate your car, if you drive 10,000 miles a year, or 6.98¢ per mile if you drive 20,000 miles a year. Let's figure 9¢ per mile as a Farmington cost.

Did you ever stop to think how much it costs to drive to some big shopping center some miles away? Or how much you'd have to save in bargains to just break even on such a drive? Here's an example:

Miles from Farmington to Northland	9.9
19.8 miles round trip, at 9¢	$1.78

It would take a ten percent savings on purchases totaling $18.00 to pay expenses of that little drive, not to mention the time involved.

Is that worth free parking?

IN FARMINGTON

Your Farmington stores have a wide selection of quality merchandise. But they have more than that—they have a quality of service always at hand you won't find often available to customers at a great distance.

They are stable businesses, will be a year or three from now in case you need services or repairs. They are your fellow taxpayers, and the small profits they make help to keep your own taxes down. They employ local workers. These things may not mean much to you directly, but they certainly do in the long run.

When you are planning a purchase or purchases, may we suggest you consider buying in Farmington, taking into account the time and auto expense involved in shopping at a distance. Consider the other elements, also.

The more concerned you are with making your dollar go farther, the more this should interest you.
