For the opening of Muccino's carry out pizzeria on Orchard Lake Road and Northwestern Highway last Thursday evening, neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Muccino of Lorikay, the Bill Phillips, Glen Hubers, Ralph McCort's, Joe Sciturro's, Joe Vesticinque, and Jim Davenports presented them with good luck presents.

Ten kindergarten and neighborhood friends of Debbie Lavens helped her celebrate her 5th birthday, Saturday, October 4th, with a luncheon followed by cup cakes and ice cream. For entertainment, the children enjoyed making their own colorful party hats.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Uhl and children, Jimmy and Denise, of Bella Vista are enjoying the company of Mr. Harry Uhl from Fort Lauderdale, Florida who will stay until the end of October.

EIGHT ladies from Westbrooke Manor gathered at the home of Mrs. Fred Ralph on Bella Vista for an evening of pinochle Thursday, October 9th.

Mrs. James Suthann's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Littell, and daughters Susan and Patricia, visited the Suthann family from Lakewood, Ohio for the week-end of October 3rd.

The Harry Kujawa family of N. Marklawn had an unexpected visitor last Wednesday evening. While eating their dinner a male pheasant flew through their living room window leaving nicked walls and furniture and shattered glass on the floor behind him. We will now ask all pheasants to please knock before entering.

LAST week-end Homer Ferguson entertained Charles Dover from East Alton, Illinois spending some of the time fishing.

Brown Directing Forthcoming Farmington Players Production

Roy A. Brown of 23700 Warner who starred in last winter's Farmington Players production, "My Three Angels," has now turned to directing for the forthcoming Players autumn production.

The play, "The Hidden River" will be presented at the Farmington Junior High gymnasium on Thomas Street on the weekends of October 24 and 25 and October 31 and November 1.

Brown's ten years of experience in all phases of amateur theatre and his background as a commercial artist and industrial and automotive designer make him well qualified as a director.

He has a keen quality of being able to demonstrate any action or speech and is meticulous in the details of movement or inflection, an official spokesman for the Players said. He is considerate yet firm in instruction and criticism and inspires the cast to give the story his own considered interpretation.

A Farmington area resident for ten years, Brown is known as an authority on art, a singer of considerable ability, an amateur sculptor, a teller of dialect stories and a sports car enthusiast.

Being shown in the metropolitan area for the first time, "The Hidden River" is a story that is neither a tragedy, mystery or comedy. It depicts a conflict of personalities that warranted it a television presentation following its Broadway showing last year.

Ticket reservations for the forthcoming play are now being taken by George Mullin — call GR 4-2873. Tickets may also be ordered from any other member of the Farmington Players.
