SETTING ON THE COLD snow-covered ground to change skates or rest is no fun and the local Kiwanis Club decided to do something about it. First to try out the new benches provided at the Farmington ice-skating pond was Paul McLaughlin. Bringing them to the rink for the expected crowd of weekend skaters were Owen Martin, left, and Arthur Mazur.

Kiwanis Club Provided Benches At City Ice Skating Rink

The city ice skating pond has two new benches on which skaters can rest or change skates. The benches are a gift of the Boys and Girls Committee of Farmington, which was presented to the Kiwanis Club by John Chambliss, president of the club. The benches are located at the end of the pond, near the entrance. The Kiwanis Club is a service organization that works to improve the lives of children in the community. The club has been active in many projects, including providing benches for the ice skating pond.
