Local Men Save Lives Of Two in Novi Cave-in

Frank Janette, owner of Janette Sanitation and Septic Tank Co., Farmington, and his foreman, Marvin Burkman of Farmington, have been credited with saving the lives of two young men in Novi.

The Farmington men risked their own lives to rescue Donald Palmer of Pontiac and Carl Janette from a broken sewer sewer line. Muddy waters of a broken sewer sewer threatened to drown the two men, stuck waist deep in a cave-in of the sewer line.

THE TWO MEN were at the bottom of a 13-foot hole, digging to uncover a broken sewer sewer line. As they neared the hole, the water shot up with tremendous pressure. Almost at once a wall of dirt collapsed, burying the two men to their waists.

Janette leaped into the hole, which was rapidly filling with water and dug feverishly to free the men. Burkman helped. As the water rose, more dirt slipped away from the sides.

Janette said that he dug with both his hands and a shovel but didn't seem to get anywhere with the foamy mud. All the time the water kept coming in.

"FINALLY, I had to close my eyes and push my face under the water to get at the dirt," Janette said, "I was crying and shouting all the time," Janette commented.

"We got Carl out first. Don't root was caught under his shoulder. We couldn't get where to dig 'cause the water was so muddy — just had to feel our way around."

Before Palmer was finally freed, the water was just under his chin.

Palmer was not hurt but Cassidy suffered crushed ribs and back injuries. Both were treated.

181 Children Die on Streets, Roads in State

Last year 181 children were killed on Michigan streets and highways — 69 per cent of them in pedestrian accidents!

Seventy-five per cent of child pedestrian accidents result from children darting into the street.

Seventy-eight per cent are hurt or killed on quiet residential streets within a block or two of home — not on busy thoroughfares.

Most are six to eight years old.

June, July and August are the peak months for child accidents.

The mother who warns "Don't play in the street" is partly missing the point.

Children seldom are run down playing in the street because motorists can see them. The accident happens when a child runs suddenly from a place where the driver can't see him — usually from behind, between or in front of parked cars.

That's why 450,000 urban-area children in Michigan have taken the "Summer Safety Pledge" this spring to "STOP at the curb, LOOK both ways, WAIT until it's safe, then WALK across the street."

The pledges were distributed to the kindergarten - through fourth grades in 520 public and parochial schools by the Associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan as part of its annual child safety program. The lesson for children is accompanied by a warning to the adults: "SCHOOL'S OUT — WATCH OUT!" carried in newspapers, billboards, service station posters and radio and television public service messages to impress on motorists their responsibility to protect children playing heedlessly during the summer vacation period.

ship, and this was placed at 86 of a mile, the same as the last couple of years.

A LETTER from the township League of Subdivision Associations' beautification committee suggested the township officials consider plantings and greenbelts in detail in passing on future commercial zoning. This will be discussed with the planning board.

The board gave approval to a final plat for Castle Estates Subdivision, subject to approval of the county road commission, dept. of health, and drain commission.

It also approved use of the township office hall a day a week for the Air Force recruiting service.

THIS WATER TANK once was used by a downtown industrial plant, now will serve the new 300-home Forest Park subdivision being erected on the site of the former Boys Republic at Inkster and Nine Mile Road. It was cut apart on the old site and brought here piece by piece.

When this picture was taken workers were cleaning out the inside of the large tank, which will hold 100,000 gallons of water. The standpipe in the middle holds 6,000 gallons, and it was filled and is being used for the several model homes already constructed. All water and sewer lines are already in for the subdivision. The structure is 150 feet high and the tank 41 feet from top to bottom. Within the week it will be painted and look like a new tank.

Stretching inland from Lake Superior's rugged shore in northern Michigan, a vast expanse of mountains, forest, lakes and rivers preserves one of the nation's few remaining large wilderness areas.

This incomparable tract of wilderness is Porcupine Mountains state park, covering 58,000 acres of Gogebic and Ontonagon counties in the west end of Michigan's upper peninsula.

About 45,000 acres of this land were acquired by the state in 1941 and have been dedicated as a "natural area" for wilderness. Another 13,000 acres were added later for development of recreational facilities.

Rich in pristine beauty, the remote "Porxies" are a favorite retreat for sportsmen, naturalists, campers and outdoor vacationers who like to enjoy their recreation in the quiet surroundings of unspoiled nature.

The rare appeal of the Porcupine makes the area one of this vacation state's top attractions, according to Michigan travel authorities. A descriptive folder, including a map of the park, is available from the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 26, Michigan.

The mountains themselves are unique. Made up of a series of broken ranges roughly parallel to Lake Superior, the Porcupine rises more than 2,000 feet above sea level and one of the highest land masses between the Adirondacks in New York and the Black Hills of the Dakotas.

Except for an area immediately adjacent to Lake Superior, the mountain slopes are covered by virgin forests, mostly hardwood species, but interspersed with magnificent white pine stands.

Tucked away in these rolling, green mountain ridges are two of Michigan's most impressive inland lakes — Lake of the Clouds and Mirror Lake. Lake of the Clouds is easily reached by a trail leading to the top of the Escarpment, a sheer cliff overlooking the north side of the lake. From the Escarpment, visitors have a panoramic view of the lake and miles of forested mountains.

Mirror Lake, farther inland, is a remote trout lake amid large white pines. Cobles or overnight shelter, complete with all necessary items except bed rolls and food, are located here for those who like to "rough it." These cabins, along with those at Lake of the Clouds and in other areas of the park, are open to the public at a nominal charge. (Park officials recommend that cabin reservations be made in advance.) More luxurious accommodations are available in Ontonagon, Silver City and other nearby towns.

Other attractions for the sight-seer and camera fan include abandoned copper and silver mines, turbulent rapids and waterfalls along the park's several rivers, and miles of well-marked nature trails.

Sportsmen find the Porxies to their liking, too. Berkies perch and bass fishing on Lake of the Clouds and trout fishing in Mirror Lake, nook and line enthusiasts have their choice of several streams for rainbow and brook trout. Deer, bear, snowshoe hares and grouse are the most common game species and hunting.

ing is permitted throughout the park during regular open seasons.

There are 75 developed campers, including several with electrical outlets. Campsites and picnic areas are located near the Presque Isle River in the western end of the park, at the Mirror Lake in the eastern end, and along the Lake Superior shore.

Also in the developed section of the park is one of the mid-west's finest winter sports centers, with skiing facilities including a twin T-bar ski lift, rope tows and a chalet. A variety of slopes and cross country trails are available to suit all skiers — from beginners to experts.

MISS LINDA SANDULA of Ridgeway, Mich., is in a "Classical Ballet" number in the dance recital of the Marian Hosard Dance Studio in Detroit recently. Linda will spend some time in New York this summer to continue her studies in ballet.

On June 17 a surprise stork shower was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Love on Spring Lake Drive honoring Mrs. John Thomas. Co-hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Richard Mitchell and Mrs. James Erle.

Among those present were: Mrs. John Thomas, Sr., Mrs. Henry Dinius, sister of the honored guest, Mrs. William McClutchie, Mrs. Harold Boucher and Mrs. Robert Rader. Games were played followed by the serving of refreshments.

A DANCE RECITAL, "Around the World" was presented by students of the Dickerman Dance Studio on Saturday, June 20, at the Farmington Junior High auditorium. Students participating from this area were Deborah and Ricky Carpenter, Judy Woods, Ricky Fox, Jim Evans, Patricia Nostre, Charlotte Everitt and Tom Ransom.

Finish Farmington Road in Next Week

If weather permits final work and paving of Farmington Road in the city will be completed next week.

All concrete work was finished this week, and blacktopping operations will go fast. However, the concrete band to cure enough to allow use of heavy equipment used for blacktopping.

Keep Garden Soil Loose

After gardens have been planted, it's time to think about cultivation, one of the most important garden jobs.

Proper cultivation preserves moisture, gives beneficial bacteria better working conditions and improves the general appearance of the garden, says Michigan State University specialists.

Cultivation preserves moisture by loosening the soil so the rain soaks in. And dead weeds don't use up the precious moisture your plants need. Bacteria, the kind your garden needs for good health, work better in loose, aerated soil.

Even if weeds haven't appeared, loosen things up a little. Then cultivate as often as necessary to keep the weeds under control.

Weeds are easily killed when they're small, but get tougher and use more water and nutrients as they grow larger.

Jaycee Park Plan Meeting on Monday

A joint meeting of the city council, the city planning committee and representatives of the Farmington Jaycees is scheduled for Monday evening, June 29, at city hall.

The group hopes to arrive at a mutual plan which will make sure the Jaycees can go ahead and spend their accumulated fund of $5,000, add more in coming years, plus labor, with firm assurance the territory will always be used for a city park.

Fire Contract for Quakertown Studied

A proposal for fire protection by the township for the Village of Quakertown is being studied by the township board, after being received Tuesday night. Supervisor Curt Hall will check similar contracts in this area, to determine an equitable charge and procedure.

Twp. Attorney Joseph T. Brennan pointed out he represented both the township and the village, and wished to disqualify himself on any legal opinion.

Quakertown Council Meeting Is June 29

A regular meeting of the Village of Quakertown council will be held Monday evening, June 29, at the home of the Village clerk at 33475 Leisure Lane. The meeting is just off Farmington Road between 11 and 12 Mile Roads. Shop in Friendly Farmington!
