Sorrows tells quite a story in the Clarenceville success this season. Any one of the starting five have good point-potential, and it just depends upon who's going to do the job at the time that determines the leader of a given game.

In this season's opened at South Lyons, Giacobazzi tossed in 13; against Northville, Roberts led early with 18; last week against W. Bloomfield, Scholtes gathered 21, and this week, Warren's 20 topped all.

Warren, 20, is the leader of this year's team. To look out for this year's team is Doug Hanford. Hanford, however, has been outstanding in rebounding, a department he leads, and he's also capable of joining the scoring leader at any time as his 12 points against Northville showed.

In the Holly contest, the teams played rather evenly as CHS mustered a one-point 26-25
