Amnesty Plan Seeks Overdue Library Books

Libraries suffer a loss of service to the public when borrowed materials are not returned promptly. In order to give the best service available to the greatest number of people, The Farmington District Library and the Farmington School Libraries are conducting four "Amnesty Days". This is a drive to bring in all overdue books belonging to any Farmington Library.

The Farmington District Library will be closed on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, December 22-26, books returned in the chute on the front of the building during these days will be free of overdue penalties, regardless of date due. School Library books will be returned to the schools to which they belong, through the District Library.

"Amnesty Days" provide an excellent opportunity to clear all records for the coming year. Officials state that this is a one time offer and that there are no plans to conduct "Amnesty Days" annually.

In Portugal

Men from many walks of life have contributed to the Christmas chorus of carols. Francis Scott Key was not only a lawyer and the author of the Star Spangled Banner; he also wrote carols. And the comedian, Harpo Marx, authored a carol now sung in many churches, "Guardian Angels."

Girl Scout Troop 639, under the leadership of Doris Burd and Barbara Blutz have been raising their young voices in song at many varied places during this caroling season. Their first stop was at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia, where they sang to the patients and children there. Later they went to Dorvin and Ardmore Convalescent homes and presented Christmas skits they originated themselves. They were very well received, and we're sure the children received many benefits too.

MARY LOU AND Mel Rhodes of Laurelwood are the proud owners of an engraved invitation to the Governor's Inaugural Ball which will be held in Lansing on January 1st. The Rhodes were active campaigners during the recent election.

Have you noticed the beautiful Christmas decorations on the Polcyn home this year. This artwork was done by their talented youngsters Tom and Ron. Naturally, Mr. and Mrs. Polcyn are very proud of their boys' handiwork, and we're going to make a special trip to see it.
