News from Kimberley

LIL CLARK GR. 6-1817

No baby news from the Burns family yet. Jim has just returned from St. Louis, Judy going to fine silk looking for the long-legged bird and hopes he will make his appearance in the coming week. Sure lozesome on this hill daughter, Wynne, in Sarnia, Ont. daughter, Lee, left 7 a.m. Sunday, via plane, with Grandma for Burlington, N. C. (has called in, made trip in fine spirit).

Speaking of spirit: did you have spirit of 76 or 82? Some of our youngsters really had the spirit. Some 14 of our children, organized by Louise Tournaud, (Mom Marion Claims on fame though I think she should have credit for such a talented daughter,) paraded through parts of Kimberley.

PARADE INCLUDED two phonos, one drum, six maracas, several flag carriers and other spirited youngsters. Bob and Sandra Baum hosted the youngsters at their home with cookies and punch following the parade. Louise hopes that this will become an annual thing with more young people participating.

Pat Acosta celebrated birthday no. 6. There to help her were Wendy Anderson, Cindy Allaire, Suzanne Thorgomont, Judy Micolet, Paula Leonard, Mike Angelo, Jackie Kane, Sandra McCallaam and Terry Svaboe. American Field Service students were visiting the area last weekend and Miss Alison Mary of New Zealand was a guest at the Andrade home on Old Bedford. She has attended school in Jvonia, Massachusetts, and will be spending a month in California, before returning home in August. They found her to be a lovely, poised young lady.

MR. ULAN Mithylzagen of Turkey, seventeen years of age, stayed with the Wade Sloanes of Stevenscrot. Beside the scheduled plans, they took him shopping and rode around Farmington, whose countryside he reminded him of Turkey.

Time was when vending machines meant just bubble gum, candy and cigarettes. Not so to day, or tomorrow. A million and a half Americans now buy at least one complete meal from a vending machine each day.

"MEMOS" FROM YOUR STYLIST
A full, generous mouth is fine—to a point, of course. To correct a foot-mouth, start by carrying your mouth with make-up base, then follow with powder. Next, draw a line across your mouth sixteenth of an inch inside your normal lip line. If you have proceeded with care, the make-up base and powder serve to effectively conceal your normal lip line and the Hubner Bros. creates a natural-looking and inviting outline for your slimmed-down lips.

THE WEEK'S HELPFUL HINT: For an unusual dessert, cut marshmallows into small pieces, pour hot coffee over them and whip cream and vanilla. Chill and serve.

THE BRIDE presented a picture to long remember in her classically styled gown of cameo ivory tulle, tulle combined with three-dimensional floral appliques and beaded embroidery. The little bodice enhanced with organza roses, satin and tulle and leaves highlighted with crystals, was designed with gently curved décolletage blending to a slightly lowered back. The gown had long sleeves, and traditional buttons down the back. Beneath the narrow fitted waistline, the skirt, and full and flowing, was decorated with appliques and applied flowers, belted to touching length. Dramatic back accent was created with a wide detachable train crowned by a rose-trimmed cocarde.

A court cap, adorned with matching embroidery, held her bouffant veil of silk illusion. Loretta Shepanek, a cousin of the bride, wore a white and cream silk jacket in white. They wore court caps with silk veils and carried blue and white carnations in colonial bouquets.

FOR THE WEDDING, the bride's mother chose a silk three-tiered dress accentuated with a delicate lace embroidered bodice. She wore a beige silk beaded hat and accessories and a corsage of white roses and brown trim. The bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece blue linen sheath.

The "BATS" IS COMING! NEXT WEEK!

Briar Hills

FRANCES MANN MA. 6-3546

July 4, 1963 is nothing more than a memory but the weather was perfect, the attendance large and the participation active to make the memory a pleasant one.

The Jones family of Becontree - Kitty, Hank and Betty Ann - left on June 11, for a ten-day vacation touring the Blue Ridge Mountains and spending four days at Gallinburg, Tennessee. Then they returned on the eighteenth, their speedometer showed they had traveled 2,140 miles through some very beautiful scenery.

THE WEEK OF June 23rd found Vic and Marian Palmer and their children in the state of West Virginia. Vic made business calls and Marian and the children relaxed and thoroughly enjoyed a cabin in the woods at Babcock State Park complete with stream and bridge. They also visited Huntington, Greenbriar and Charleston. It was the state's centennial celebration and Marian and Vic attended an excellent outdoor drama depicting the history of the state.

NANCY AND TIMOTHY Martilla had a doubleheader, consultation at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital on Friday, June 28. Their neighbor, Kathy Nauman, underwent surgery at New Grace Hospital on Monday, the 30th. The patients are all home now and well on the road to recovery.

On July 1, Ricky and I headed for Akron, Ohio, to visit my parents and to return on the third with Gail and Debby Dunn who had been visiting. Gail was anxious to get home to see our dog's pups who were born June 28. There are four - two all black and two white with black spots.

American Field Service students were visiting the area last weekend and Miss Alison Mary of New Zealand was a guest at the Andrade home on Old Bedford. She has attended school in Jvonia, Massachusetts, and will be spending a month in California, before returning home in August. They found her to be a lovely, poised young lady.

MR. ULAN Mithylzagen of Turkey, seventeen years of age, stayed with the Wade Sloanes of Stevenscrot. Beside the scheduled plans, they took him shopping and rode around Farmington, whose countryside he reminded him of Turkey.
